

Commercial zoning at issue

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Local realtors want much of Madison Avenue, Pontoon Road and Johnson Road zoned for commercial use while many of the residents of those streets want them to remain residential.

That was the strong message which emerged following a 2½ hour public hearing Tuesday night on the proposed new zoning ordinance for Granite City.

Tom Wobbe, senior planner with the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMARPC), explained to a very small audience of approximately 20 realtors, city officials and residents, that the proposed ordinance is the result of years of work.

David Morgan, chairman of the Granite City Planning Commission, who conducted the public hearing, said the current zoning ordinance dates back to 1958, "and has been nothing but trouble."

He said that at nearly every Plan Commission meeting, the commission wrestles with rezoning requests and is reluctant to endorse them, because the current zoning ordinance has too few zoning categories.

Approval of commercial zoning for a confectionery on one lot could open the door for "a pickling works" or other unwanted business on that lot in the future, Morgan indicated.

He said the Plan Commission asked Wobbe for more zoning classifications, particularly commercial and industrial, so that granting rezoning for a confectionery would limit future use for that parcel to similar businesses only.

"Other than (breaking up) the broad classifications, there are very, very few changes from the current ordinance," Morgan said.

Many of those in the audience were (Continued on Page 7)

GC lays off 18 in four departments

Eighteen Granite City employees were laid off at the end of their shifts yesterday and additional layoffs are anticipated when pending court litigation is settled, city officials have indicated. A shortage of funds approaching $1 million before new tax revenues will be received is cited as the reason for the cuts, which were ordered by Mayor Paul Schuler and by the city council.

The mayor's office notified 18 employees Monday that they were to be laid off at the end of their shifts Wednesday. With police Patrolman Ed Wiesehan's announcement that he is going on disability, the reduction in the city's work force grew to 19, including eight in the police department, six in the street department, four in the inspection department and two in the air pollution control department.

Bitterness was being expressed Wednesday by many of the employees who blamed the city administration and city council for poor fiscal planning, contending that their unions had negotiated their salaries and that the city should have the money available it agreed to pay.

In addition to the layoffs, the salaries of all city employees have been rolled back to the April 30 level, eliminating negotiated raises which took effect May 1. The first checks as the lower level were distributed to employees yesterday.

Unions, representing the police, firemen and clerks and secretaries have sought a hearing on petitions for an injunction to halt the rollbacks of wages and to force the city to live up to its contracts.

A hearing on the petitions was to be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday before Associate Judge John Day in East Alton but the city filed a motion for a change of venue and the hearing was postponed. Chief Judge Joseph Barr assigned the case to Associate Judge Nicholas G. Byron, but William Brandt, attorney for the Teamsters and Firefighters then sought a change of venue from Byron's court.

Chief Judge Joseph Barr told the Press-Record at hearing time, "I'm running out of judges with vacations and judges in Chicago. We won't have a hearing until we can get a judge." He said it is unlikely that a date for the hearing will be set within the next two weeks, due to the court's schedule.

"As I understand it, the paychecks have already been printed (and distributed), so it doesn't matter at this point (when the hearing is held)," Judge Barr said.

The petitions opposing the rollbacks were filed by Granite City Firefighters' Local 253, Chauffeurs, Teamsters, Warehousemen & Helpers Local 525 on behalf of street department workers and some in the sanitation, humane and other departments; and two locals of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, one representing the police and the other representing secretaries and clerks.

The layoffs affect three uniformed police officers (not counting Wiesehan); all four police dispatchers; six street department workers; Paula Case, head of the city's air pollution control department; and her inspector Kevin Halbe; City Building Inspector Tony Rusick; Assistant City Inspector Pete Ferro; inspection department secretary William Dallas, and part-time inspector for weights and (Continued on Page 4)

Venice Township pays $13,150 in fire calls

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Peace and harmony were the theme at a special meeting held Tuesday night between Venice Township officials, Mayor Tyrone Echols of Venice, and members of the Venice City Council, as the city received a check for $13,150 from the township.

Payment for fire calls in the township has been a matter of contention and several heated meetings between Venice city and township officials for several months.

Nick D. Vasileff, attorney for Venice Township, first addressed the council and stated as a gesture of friendship Christ N. Pashoff, township supervisor, would like to make a presentation.

At that time Supervisor Pashoff presented the check.

Pashoff said that effective Aug. 1, Venice Township will no longer be responsible for payment of fires in Eagle Park Acres.

He said that Eddie Salmond told him they were getting a fire truck and would handle their own fires.

A discussion followed when Alderman John Erwin, chairman of the aldermanic fire committee, asked about approximately $3,450 believed to be still owed the city by the township.

Supervisor Pashoff said he thought the fires in question were not in Venice Township, but were in Nameoki Township.

After comparing notes it was decided that they could meet at a later date and check exactly the location of the fires in question.

The problem of the overdue payment was first brought out in December 1980 and payment was promised within six months.

When payment was not made as agreed tempers began to flare on the Venice city council.

It was contended by Pashoff that in most cases the township was never paid by persons having fires, primarily in Eagle Park Acres.

The Venice fire department also covers the Tri-City Regional Port District and the Benjamin Addition which, according to Pashoff, have always made payment for fires covered.

After the township officials left an informal meeting was held to review the 1981-82 city budget.

Because of financial problems that have beset the city for the last year, Venice is proposing a new tentative budget of $1,301,388, an increase of only $26,275 over that of last year.

The question was raised as to why the salary of Mrs. Roseann Koelker, comptroller, was increased from $10,200 to $16,492, when there were no other raises in the new budget.

"Mrs. Koelker has been serving as acting comptroller and doing an outstanding job. She has been here some time on an underpaid basis," Mayor Echols said.

Madison ambulances in part-time operation

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The Madison Fire Department ambulance service officially began operation this week.

Training and preparation for the service has been in progress for more than a year.

The service is operational from 8 p.m. until 6 a.m. daily on a regular basis. Depending on the voluntary manpower available the service will be expanded to operate at certain times during the day.

When the Madison ambulance service is not operational, Granite City answers the calls.

The new service will answer ambulance calls only in the city limits of Madison.

The cost of an ambulance run to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for Madison residents is $75, with no mileage charge. Should a non-resident be picked up in Madison, the cost is $95, plus $1 per mile.

The ambulance will be manned by certified Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT).

To become an EMT a person must take an 81-hour training course and pass a written test, before they can be certified by the state of Illinois.

The MFD has five EMTs now, Robert Hollenbeck, Robert and Rick Robbins, Mike Maccek and Dan Jones.

In addition Hardy Bryan, a photographer for the MFD, is a certified EMT.

Lt. Mike Maccek is coordinating the ambulance service.

All new firemen in Madison will be required to take EMT training. Three more firemen are beginning training in August.

Operations at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center were cutback to a nine-month program in action taken Monday night by the Venice Board of Education.

The adult vocational-educational school is financed with federal and state funds and administered by the Venice School District.

For most of the 14 years since the center was established, as part of a district-wide desegregation effort in Venice, the school has operated on an 11-month schedule.

Last year, some programs were reduced to 10 months from the normal 11-month schedule, according to Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers.

The center will start its 1981-82 school year on Aug. 24, conforming to the same dates as the Venice public schools, Supt. Vickers said.

Three programs—auto mechanics, welding and machine shop—will start

Aug. 3 and may continue to run for 10 months, it was learned.

The remaining classes will extend for nine months, probably on a staggered basis, with some courses offered from October through June. The center will be closed in July.

The cutback in programs primarily results from reduced funding for the center, which is expected to get about 80 percent of the operating funds received last year.

Teachers employed at Venice-Lincoln will be required to sign an agreement to conform to the nine-month employment schedule, Supt. Vickers said.

Whether or not the schedule can be revised at a later date will depend on the amount of funding available, the administrator added.

At the June 29 meeting of the board, it was announced the district had lost $184,497 in funds allocated through the Title VI program, which amounted to $187,497 in the 1980-81 fiscal year.

At least five teachers in the Venice public schools, affected by the elimination of Title VI projects, have seniority over other teachers employed by the Venice district at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center whom they could replace through a "bumping" process.

It was noted at Monday's meeting that two teachers at the adult vocational center have indicated they are planning to get jobs elsewhere, Supt. Vickers said.

A vacancy also exists in the public schools since Debbie Plummer, a teacher of Trainable Mentally Handicapped children, was granted a one-year leave of absence to pursue a master's degree at the board's last meeting.

The possibility of retaining all faculty members affected by the loss of Title VI money, both in the public schools and at the adult center, was voiced earlier by Duane Rankin, Venice-Lincoln Center director.

Rankin informed the board he may be able to obtain between $40,000 and $60,000 in additional federal and state money to replace some of the eliminated funds. Further information concerning the extra funds was not available Monday night.

In another move to further cut expenses, the board agreed to reduce from 12 months to 10 months the employment schedule of a Class I secretary in the superintendent's office, who will work a maximum of seven hours per day.

Board Member George Wade presided at Monday's meeting in the absence of Board President Jack Tolliver.

Fire damages Earl's; two firemen are hurt

Firefighting equipment from all three Granite City engine companies responded to a blaze at Earl's sporting goods store, 19th Street and Cleveland Blvd. at 8:40 a.m. Wednesday.

Fire Captain Edward McGovern and Fireman Nelson Hagauer sustained injuries in fighting the blaze, but neither man was seriously hurt.

Losses incurred by the fire had not been estimated Wednesday afternoon. An investigation into the cause is continuing, according to Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich.

The fire resulted in moderate smoke, heat and water damage to the rear storage area and moderate damage to the store section at the front of the building, Smolich advised.

Structural damage appeared to be minimal, the officer said. Firefighters, under the command of Captain Raymond Romine, watch commander, remained at the scene for one hour and 25 minutes.

Earl Harris, owner and operator of Earl's in Downtown Granite City and stores located at 3875 Nameoki Road and in Fairview Heights, said he hopes to reopen the damaged store Monday, July 20.

The downtown Granite City store also serves as warehouse headquarters for all three stores. Operations at the other stores are not affected, Harris said.

Smolich, who is the department's arson investigator, said initially it was believed the fire had started in three separate locations.

"After a closer investigation, we are reasonably sure it was not arson. However, the possibility isn't completely ruled out," he commented.

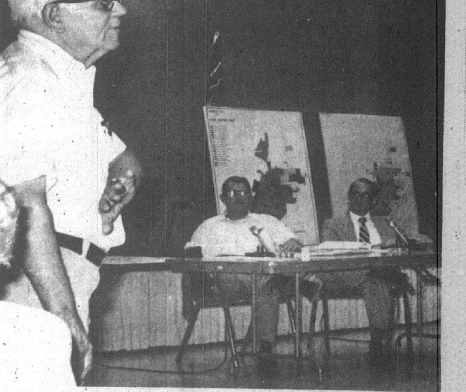

Smolich said examination of the premises by police and fire arson investigators is continuing.

A police officer in a patrolling squad car first noticed the blaze and alerted the fire department, it was learned.

A rear door at the south end of the building had to be forced by firemen to get inside the building. The front doors also were securely locked, police noted.

Capt. McGovern was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for cuts to his leg, resulting from shattered glass, and released.

Fireman Hagauer sustained minor injuries to his neck and was given first aid by fire department EMTs at the scene.

Origin of words

By GARRY N. MURPHY
English, SIUE

Some of the most down-to-earth words and expressions in our language are the most difficult when it comes to tracing their origins. The lexicographers usually signal their defeat with "?" or "Orig. unknown" or "perh." Look up "shoddy," "honky-tonk," "fogey," or "cut the mustard," and you'll see what I mean. Recently, New York Times columnist William Safire inquired about the origin of a very new phrase — "out of the left field." Everyone agreed that it means "isolated, or out" and this "far-out, secular, improbable, extreme." But no one could agree on why that part of a baseball field came to be a metaphor for that meaning.

There were about as many different rationales as correspondents: a dippy sidearm pitch from a right-hander would appear to come out of left field; in the older parks, left field was deeper than right; most of the hard hits go to left field, so the fielder has to play farther back; the weakest defensive players are put in left, so the fielding is likely to be erratic; left-field seats beyond third base are the least desirable, except for fans who come just to snag a home-run ball or a long foul; any field is far out, rather than the infield, and "left," by its ancient associations, adds the idea of eccentricity.

I guess it's a fielder's choice. I personally favor the last two explanations, since I doubt the phrase was inspired by anything more than a super ficial knowledge of the game.

6 The one clearest conclusion we can draw from all this is that no clearcut origin for the expression is to be found, even though it is scarcely 25 years old, not nearly as old as "shoddy," "fogey," and etc. Its origin is shrouded, it would seem, in the mists of contemporaneity.

Growing peppers in the garden

Area Garden Adviser

A number of different types of peppers can be successfully grown in vegetable gardens. Most popular peppers at the present time are the "mild bell and banana types and the pungent Hungarian was types. Peppers are normally harvested in the mature green stage for use in a variety of ways including stuffing, relishes, salads and cooked vegetable dishes.

The garden pepper, often mistakenly called mango, is unrelated to the spice pepper plant producing the black and white pepper of commerce. The mango is a tropical fruit unrelated to either type of pepper. Peppers grown in various parts of the world are used for making such products as pickles, stuffed olives and cheese products.

The choice of a variety is important and depends upon grower preference. Some suggested varieties are as follows:

Green (mild) — Yolo Wonder strains, Calwonder, Keystone Resistant Giant, Bell Boy Hybrid.

Yellow (mild) — Golden Calwonder, Gypsy.

Banana Type — Sweet Banana.

tablespoons of nitrogen fertilizer scattered around the base of each plant.

Weeds, insects and diseases must be controlled in the planting. Use shallow cultivation when weeds are small for weed control. Principal insects and diseases to look for in the pepper planting are aphids, European corn borer, anthracnose, and bacterial leaf spot. Keep plants free of insects and disease by use of a regular dusting or spraying program.

Peppers are normally harvested in the immature stage when they have reached full size. Usually harvested in the immature stage when they have reached full size. Usually harvest is from 60-80 days after transplanting.

It is important that plants grow rapidly after transplanting; otherwise they start blooming and setting fruit when too small. The result is reduced production from the planting. Also pepper plants generally make rather poor recovery from any type of stunting.

After the plants are well established, applied mulches can conserve soil moisture, prevent soil compaction and help suppress weed growth.

A sidedressing with a high nitrogen garden fertilizer at the time fruit are setting can help promote greater plant productivity. Use 1 1/2-2

Peppers set at temperatures above 60 degrees F. may be small and poorly shaped due to heat injury to the blossoms. Temperatures below 60 degrees F. at night will increase blossom drop. A shortage of available water at bloom time can result in blossom drop or failure to set fruit. Usually the plants set satisfactory crops when temperatures are between 60-80 degrees F. and the soil is well supplied with moisture. Avoid a soggy, waterlogged soil condition when growing pepper plants.

Pepper plants grow best in warm, well drained soils of moderate fertility and good tilth. The plants are particularly sensitive to soil acidity, but best results with the crop are obtained in the pH 5.6-6.8 range.

School election dates set

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A calendar of local election dates for the Granite City School Board of Education and dates for filing petitions, in accordance with new state laws, was established by the board members at a meeting Tuesday night, held at the board office, 20th and Adams streets.

Prior to election day, which is set for Tuesday, Nov. 3, this year, the initial date of Wednesday, July 15, through Friday, Aug. 7, is the first and last day for publishing notice of the time and place for filing nominating petitions. Monday, Aug. 17, is the first day to file nominating papers with the board secretary and Monday, Aug. 24, is the last day to file nominating papers and the office must be open to receive the papers until 5 p.m.

The schedule for complying with the new laws continues on Saturday, Aug. 29, which is the last day to file objections to the nominating papers of school board candidates and the office must be open all day. This date is also the last day for a candidate who has submitted petitions for two seats (full term and part term) to withdraw one or the other.

Tuesday, Sept. 1, is the last day for board secretary to provide written Notice of Filing Lottery, if lottery is to be held on Sept. 8. The law requires notice at least seven days before the lottery.

The last day for candidate to file notarized papers with drawing nomination is Wednesday, Sept. 9, and is also the last day for board secretary to certify candidates to the Election Authority and to certify all public policy questions and referenda to the Election Authority.

Following the election on Nov. 3, Thursday, Nov. 5, will be the last day for the Election Authority to transmit election results to the board secretary, and the following day is the final date for the board secretary to transmit election results to the president of the school board.

The Board of Education is to meet on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

to canvass the precinct returns, prepare an abstract of votes and declare winners. This is also the last day for the Board of Education to reorganize by electing officers and setting a time and place for regular meetings.

In other business board members reviewed a special purchase request submitted by Ronald Landman, maintenance supervisor, in relation to air conditioners at North High School and Grigsby Junior High School and repairs on the roof at Frohardt School.

The board gave approval to have Rankin Associates replace compressors at North High School at an estimated cost of $9,900, with the stipulation that Landman seek, possibly, reimbursement from the insurance company who has made a preliminary inspection of the units.

Russell Weber was awarded the contract to repair damage of the air conditioners at Grigsby Jr. High School at a cost not to exceed $7,944.

The board also agreed to have Biebel Brothers Roofing Co., who are presently working on the roof at Frohardt School, do additional work of approximately 1,350 square feet of roof at the school for a total cost of $1,700.

Landman also submitted a report of damage at Parkview School, which had been broken into by vandals on June 23. The approximate cost for clean up, replacement of glass, restroom fixtures and equipment, not including 10 pieces of A.V. equipment, coke machine or record player has reached a total of $20,581.

Among the damage was 101 interior windows, 11 outside windows, 7 commodes, three lavatories, a new I.B.M. typewriter, a small refrigerator, 10 pieces of A.V. equipment. There also were holes in several walls, blackboards, tables, desks and many other smaller items, Landman added.

Projected dates for the 1982 school budget was set by the board members who decided the board will receive the budget at the next meeting on Aug. 11. A newspaper advertisement for display of the budget is scheduled for Aug. 13 and the final adoption of the budget will take place at the Sept. 15 meeting.

GC man charged with holding woman captive for three days

Richard A. Hogue, 32, of 837 Niedringhaus Ave., has been charged with a felony count of unlawful restraint in connection with the alleged abduction of a 49-year-old live-in housekeeper from the home in which she works in the 700 block of Old Alton Road, last week, and the alleged keeping of her as a hostage for three days.

The victim said she was asleep in her room when a man entered through a window about 2:30 a.m. Thursday, July 9, choked her, put his hand over her mouth and ordered her to get dressed. He allowed her to put on house slippers and then took her from the house, threatening to kill her if she made any noise, investigators were told.

They walked several miles to near a pond where he allegedly kept her hostage all day and forced her to perform several acts. That night, the man allegedly walked her to Granite City, broke into a house in the 1700 block of Cleveland Boulevard and kept the woman hostage there all night.

They walked, traveled by bus and hitchhiked through St. Louis and south on Interstate 55 until they were picked up by a young couple which became suspicious of the victim's behavior and dress. Her clothing was torn and she had tied the sandles to her feet with pieces of rope, since they kept coming off during the miles and miles of walking, authorities were told.

When the four in the car stopped at a truck stop in New Madrid, Mo., about 30 miles south of Cape Girardeau, the victim was able to get free of her captor, saying she was going to the restroom. Instead, she grabbed a waitress, told her she was being kidnapped and asked the waitress to call police.

When officers arrived, they took Hogue into custody and held him in the New Madrid County Jail until Madison County sheriff's deputies took him into custody and returned him here Tuesday.

His bond has been set at $25,000 and he was being held in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

The woman had to see a private doctor Tuesday since she was suffering from dehydration and exhaustion, a friend reported.

Madison County Detective Sgt. James Newsome said he plans to consult further with the Madison County state's attorney's office and with Missouri officials on the detailed allegations.

Fire Chief recommends 'life-saving' TV program

NBC, in association with the American Red Cross, is presenting "5 Minutes to Live" a program that the Granite City Fire Department recommends the people of Granite City watch, according to Fire Chief Don Parente.

The program is being aired each Sunday for five consecutive Sundays. The third in the series will air Sunday on Channel 5.

"5 Minutes to Live" presents the advantages of community involvement in C.P.R. and the use of advanced life support (paramedics).

The first of the 1½-hour programs dealt with the fact that "sudden-death" cardiac situations will usually occur with the loved one being the victim; that survival rates can be raised from 3 percent to nearly 25 percent by a witness alone immediately starting C.P.R. and that when advanced life support is available, the survival rates can be improved up to 62 percent or better, as has been done in Seattle.

The remaining programs will be Sunday, July 18, 8:30 p.m., "Infant and Pediatric C.P.R.," and choking situations and their solutions; Sunday, July 26, 1 p.m., "Emergency Care Systems in general, paramedic systems and how to use both," and Sunday, Aug. 2, 1 p.m., "Capsule of the past four programs.

"In this time of reductions in emergency services and tightening the budget, we strongly suggest that the people of Granite City take the time to view these programs," Parente concluded.

On Dean's list at Illinois U.

Tom Busch, 25, Bermuda Lane, a student at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, has been placed on the Dean's List for scholastic achievement.

Busch, a 1980 graduate of Granite City High School South, recently completed his freshman year in architectural studies at the university.

He is currently employed for the fourth summer on the staff at Boy Scout Camp Sumner at Potosi, Mo.

Fireman hurt in blaze

Fire Captain Leroy Harshbarger was injured at 4:15 a.m. Wednesday when the living room ceiling collapsed on him at 4024 Old Alton Road, where firemen were fighting a fire, possibly set by an arsonist.

Estimated loss to the building was $15,000. Bobby Gafford, 2021 Dewey Ave., is listed as the owner.

Capt. Harshbarger was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for X-rays taken and was released.

Two men driving north on Nameoki Road reported seeing smoke from the house, went to investigate and found the structure on fire. They notified the fire department.

The blaze apparently started in the kitchen area and spread through the house. A window was found open, the report noted.

An investigation into the fire's origin is continuing, according to Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich.

County pledges to fight attempts by Edwardsville to save old jail

The Madison County board is urging State's Attorney Don Weber to take the dispute over the old county jail's preservation to the Illinois Supreme Court, if necessary.

In a letter which received board approval Wednesday, Weber is asked to do everything possible to see that the county wins a lawsuit filed against it by the Goshen Preservation Alliance and the city of Edwardsville to stop demolition of the jail.

Edwardsville went to court last week to seek a protective restriction under its power of eminent domain.

Now, the county board members say, more is at stake than just the old jail and its fate. The question is: Can a city tell a county what to do with its own property? "All of the undersigned will take the position that the city of Edwardsville does not have the right to tell the county what to do with its property; and that the statute that the city is relying upon does not apply as between governments," the letter said.

"Therefore, we request that you put your best trial lawyers and research assistants on this case, to assist (assistant state's attorney) Marshall Smith. If need be, this case should be carried to the Supreme Court of Illinois."

"We are all sure that you realize that this case is one of first impression and of grave concern to all county boards throughout the State of Illinois."

"If it is legally true that the city of Edwardsville can tell county government what it can and cannot do with its properties, then every county seat in the state of Illinois is subject to the control of the municipality in which it is located.

"Collectively, we do not believe that the legislature intended that to happen and the issue must be resolved in the courts as soon as possible."

"We realize that your job is difficult and that you would like very much to avoid this sort of 'political football,' but it is an important issue, not only to this county, but to the entire state of Illinois, and one that must be faced and fought," the letter concluded.

Eleven county board members signed the letter to Weber.

At Wednesday's county board meeting, board member Don McLean, Edwardsville, protested that the letter was out of order because a circuit judge had not yet ruled on the lawsuit.

"I'm going to allow it to be in order," county board chairman Nelson Hagnauer replied crisply.

The county board last year voted to lease the old jail to the Goshen Preservation Alliance for three years for restoration.

But later the county board reversed itself. Last month, it voted to demolish the old building. GPA promptly filed suit, and a temporary restraining order stopped the demolition, pending a hearing.

Additional layoffs may affect the fire department, ambulance service and other departments, once the petitions for the injunctions have been settled, according to David Nolan, administrative aide to Mayor Schuler.

Mrs. Case said she feels her layoff was based upon something more than a desire to save money.

She said state and federal authorities already have indicated that they are likely to take a $45,000 grant away from the city which supported most of the air pollution control department.

"I received the papers on the grant yesterday and I will have to return them, because the state recommendation at this time, as I hear it, is to cancel the program in Granite City," she said.

"All they have done is cut the federal shares. The city will continue to pay about what it would have, had the program continued. They are retaining two people, who will cost about $43,000 in city money, plus operating expenses."

He added, "I don't understand why I was laid off as part of inspection department when the payroll shows that at the end of May, I was in the engineering department. I plan to pursue this matter legally through my union and I feel I have a very good chance of rescuing my job."

"The city council's resolution calls for four to be kept in engineering. Now there are only three. Where is the fourth? I had no idea that I had been changed from one department to another until I called payroll Monday and found out I was in engineering," Dallas contended.

He said that his salary was divided half and half between city planning and engineering. "I guess I was technically considered secretary to the inspection department, although I have not done inspection work since we moved here (the township building) in August, 1980, and put under the control of the city engineer," Dallas concluded.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell said yesterday that the loss of six men in his department will be felt in the investigation and other types of activities go."

Dallas expressed surprise when Mayor Schuler notified him by telephone Monday of his layoff. He said he will oppose the firing, contending he has more seniority than anyone in these combined departments.

"Union or no union, I believe people should have been laid off with less seniority than me," he said, contending that he believes his role as one of the organizers of the AFSCME local for the city's clerks and secretaries played a part in the decision to lay him off.

Dallas said, Mayor Schuler told me that he talked to (City Attorney) John Papa and Lance Callis and was told by them that I am technically still the secretary to the inspection department. That department is being leveled to one, by council action, and that one is Emerald Dawkins.

"My question is what does Lance Callis (former city attorney) have to do with this? He is no longer the city attorney," Dallas said.

He added, "I don't understand why I was laid off as part of inspection department when the payroll shows that at the end of May, I was in the engineering department. I plan to pursue this matter legally through my union and I feel I have a very good chance of rescuing my job."

"The city council's resolution calls for four to be kept in engineering. Now there are only three. Where is the fourth? I had no idea that I had been changed from one department to another until I called payroll Monday and found out I was in engineering," Dallas contended.

"I guess I was technically considered secretary to the inspection department, although I have not done inspection work since we moved here (the township building) in August, 1980, and put under the control of the city engineer," Dallas concluded.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell said yesterday that the loss of six men in his department will be felt in the quality and quantity of services the city can offer.

"We are going to have to concentrate on emergencies, sewer work and trying to keep the city free of accidents."

"What is going to hurt us in the manpower line will be a lot of the services that people have been demanding and getting, such as brush pickups, minor sewer work, pothole repairs and sidewalk repair. We haven't even gotten into our oil and chip program yet. It's not too late, but we don't have an motor fuel tax contract on that yet," Portell said, noting he does not know if a program will be finalized this summer.

"Six people off of the bottom hurts you overall. We will just have to concentrate on one thing for a while and when we get too far behind in an area, concentrate on that. We'll be playing catch up all the time and won't be able to stay on top of anything," Portell predicted.

Televising and internal grouting of sewers, which has saved the city thousands of dollars since 1978, can only be used in emergencies, he said. "There is no way to continue that on a regular basis with the workforce we now have," he said.

The television truck will be used early next week to determine if a collapsing easement at 2877 Spalding Ave. is sewer-related and to determine if it can be repaired from inside.

Another sewer break at 2823 Lincoln Ave., is expected to stop flowing at any time and pumps have been put in place ready to begin bypass pumping. Before it could be repaired, Portell said, he would have to go before the city council and ask for more people to do the work.

Equipment is another problem, Portell said, noting that funds to repair them have been short for years. "Some trucks are sidelined because there is no money to repair them."

"It makes our budget astronomical on truck repairs, due to their age and what we have to do to keep them running. We spent over $11,000 last year in street sweeper repairs. That would go a long way toward buying a new street sweeper," Portell commented.

Shirley Voegle replaces Francis

2 hurt as car strikes truck

Two teenage girls were injured when their auto struck a United Parcel Service delivery truck at 19th Street and Delmar Avenue at 12:50 p.m. Monday.

The driver of the truck, Tim Thompson, 3115 Colgate Place, said he was parking the vehicle when it was struck from the rear.

The driver of the car, Jennifer Marler, 16, of 20 Steelcrest Drive, said she had just been to the dentist and had taken medication when the accident occurred. She said she may have lost consciousness for a moment, causing the accident.

She was taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she was treated and released. A passenger in the car, Susan Bridick, 15, of 51 Lockhaven Drive, also was released after emergency room treatment.

The Madison County board Wednesday appointed Shirley Voegle, a Granite City woman to the Board of Review seat previously held by Glen Carbon attorney Terry Francis.

The woman, Shirley Voegle, has 16 years of experience in real estate, according to county board chairman Nelson Hagnauer, who nominated her. She has been an employee of the Granite City Township assessor's office.

A county grand jury probing assessment practices in Madison County had recently recommended that Francis not be reappointed to a new term on the review board.

Hagnauer delayed a decision on Francis' reappointment in May in order to review materials from the assessments probe.

In June, the board of review position was again not voted on. No Democrats had passed a test required for board review members. We spent over $11,000 last year in street sweeper repairs. That would go a long way toward buying a new street sweeper," Portell commented.

Later, the test was given again. Hagnauer said four Democrats passed the second time. Shirley Voegle was appointed to a two-year term. In nominating her, Hagnauer jokingly said that, despite the number of women who have taken office in Madison County government in the last few years, he is "not 100 percent behind ERA like some people think." But he was convinced that she was qualified for the job, he said.

Production was resumed this morning at the A.O. Smith Corp. auto frame manufacturing plant, ending a month-long shutdown which resulted from separate strikes by the machinists' and boiler-makers' unions. The end came Friday morning when nearly 1,000 boiler-makers voted to return to work and accepted an agreement worked out during a nine-hour negotiating session last Wednesday. The 22 plant machinists had settled their contract eight days earlier on July 5 with the acceptance of a 2 1/2-cent hourly pay boost.

Granite City school district voters, by a vote of 473 to 53 on Saturday, gave the school board permission to construct a second high school. The site will be a 65-acre campus on Maryville Road near Highway 203. It had been planned to build a combination elementary school and junior high school on the Wein tract, but changes in the enrollment pattern resulted in the altered plan.

News notes

Westbound lanes on Route 40 near and at the Vandeventer Overpass in St. Louis were closed to traffic Tuesday and traffic is being redirected just west of Ewing Avenue onto the previous eastbound lanes of Route 40 and then to Grand Boulevard before crossing back onto the existing westbound lanes near the overpass. Then traffic crosses again into the previous eastbound lanes at the overpass and crosses to Tower Grove Avenue before returning to the proper lane. The westbound entrance from Market Street also is closed during construction, which is expected to take 2 1/2 years.

Part-time students from Missouri will pay Illinois in-state rates for classes at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville beginning this fall. The university's board of trustees approved the in-state rates for students taking up to nine credit hours per quarter of undergraduate or graduate classes. Registration begins by appointment Sept. 22 and fall classes begin Sept. 28.

Ridership on the Chicago-area mass transit system has slipped more than 20 percent since 57 percent increases in fares were imposed July 6 to keep the financially-troubled system operating. Commuter railroads reported ridership down 22 percent in the six counties served by the transit system. Four suburban bus lines have already shut down because of missed subsidies and no relief is in sight until the state legislature tries to find a financing solution.

John P. Dailey, 39, a Peoria Republican, threw his hat into the race Tuesday as a candidate for state treasurer of Illinois. Dailey, a lawyer, is president of the Continental Regency Hotel Co., and is a vice chairman of Community Bank of Greater Peoria. He also is a vice-president of The Becker Companies, a real estate firm. He is the second Republican to announce his candidacy for the office and will face House Speaker W. Robert Blair in the March primary election.

Daniel J. Stack, a Highland attorney with numerous Quad-City area ties, has been selected as special counsel for Madison County Circuit Clerk William V. "Butch" Portell's fight to get more office space for the various departments of the circuit clerk's office. Stack was selected Tuesday to handle a lawsuit filed by Portell July 2 against the county board and its buildings commission, alleging that inadequate office space is unhealthy, is creating a fire hazard and is prohibiting Portell from doing his job.

Ozark Air Lines has announced a new $35 one-way air fare, effective today, on five flights making stops going to Chicago. Tickets must be purchased two weeks in advance, but that requirement is being waived through July. The new fare is billed as "near bus prices, but four times as fast."

Two hundred and twenty-nine state employees who were not sure whether they would be paid on time this week will be under a letter of intent sent to the state comptroller Wednesday by Gov. James Thompson. The payment follows a review of their commissions. Fourteen other employees in the County Problems Study Commission and Data Information Systems Commission will not be paid on time as their commissions and nine new commissions, committees and authorities remain under budget study.

Directors of A.O. Smith Corp. voted Tuesday to reduce the company's common stock dividend from 35-cents per share to 25-cents per share payable Aug. 17 to shareholders of record July 31. An unsatisfactory profit performance was cited as the reason for the reduction.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has agreed to be the parade marshal for the Illinois State Fair on Aug. 6. The fair opens with the parade that will continue through Aug. 16 in Springfield.

The Illinois State Police have announced that car speed checks will be conducted on Interstate 270 a half-mile east of Route 111 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday in an attempt to remind motorists to watch the speed of their autos. The state police aircraft will be monitoring the speed of cars at that location and will be working with patrol cars on the ground to make arrests, it was announced today.

Also missing are about $100 worth of items belonging to the Dave Clark Agency, 1910 Edwardsville Road, including three tires, two batteries, a wheel, a radiator, an air compressor and a post hole digger.

Hartzel graduated with high honors in June from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he maintained a straight "A" (5.00 point) grade average during his four years of college.

He was named valedictorian of his graduating class and received the SIU Foundation Award for Academic Excellence, the Biology Outstanding Senior Award and the Ella Ott Weisman Award in Biology. At SIUE, Hartzel was a member of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the Dean's College and Pi Mu Epsilon.

He also is employed at Ahn's Yamaha in Collinsville and races motorcycles professionally.

Hartzel is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dale Spicer of Mitchell.

Theft from basement

A color television set, three black and white TVs, assorted hand and power tools, a butane torch, an extension light, apartment keys, 75 pounds of lead, a radio, a tire and a $220 rent check were stolen from the basement of an apartment building at 2104 Washington Ave., owned by Dora McCance, Fairfield Bay, Ark.

The owner told police Wednesday that a former employee of hers had been seen loading items into a van before he moved to Nashville, Tenn.

The $220 rent check from a tenant had been cashed after Mrs. McCance's signature was signed on the back.

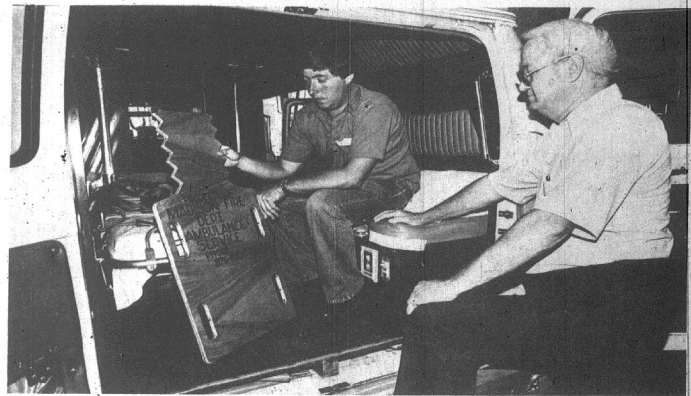

Wife charged with battery

Shirley G. Robinson, 44, of 3008 E. 23rd St., was charged with battery in a complaint signed by her husband, Billie Robinson, of the same address at 8:32 a.m. Tuesday.

Police went to the apartment and were told by the husband that his wife had kicked and scratched him and tore off his shirt.

An officer alleged the woman continued to use loud and obscene language, toward the man and when told she was under arrest, walked away toward the apartment.

Mrs. Robinson was taken to the station, where she allegedly refused to provide any information.

'Human error' blamed in GC Steel accident

Human error is being blamed for the explosion last week at Granite City Steel which caused serious burns to three Collinsville men employed in the plant's caster section there.

Carl Baczenas, public relations director for the company, said an investigation of the incident has revealed that slag, instead of steel, was allowed into the mold section of the caster by mistake. The mistake, he said, was caused by the operating crew.

St. John's Mercy Medical Center in Creve Coeur this morning listed Bickel and Novosel in critical condition and Hawk in serious condition. Bickel was burned over 95 percent of his body. Novosel, 75 percent and Hawk, 50 percent.

The accident occurred at approximately 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 8, on the operating floor at the top level of Granite City Steel's caster plant.

An investigation of the explosion began immediately after the accident and was concluded Friday. Baczenas said slag was blown out the top of the caster mold by a buildup of steam. "Since slag cannot form a solid shape as steel does, cooking water, which normally helps to solidify the steel strand, entered the slag in the strand," Baczenas said.

Slag is a waste product that normally forms in the production of steel. It is lighter than steel and its major ingredient is limestone, he said. Baczenas did not specify which employees were a part of the operating crew. "All the people in the area were technically part of the crew," he said.

A Granite City fire official said the force of the blast that injured the three Collinsville residents was so powerful that their safety helmets were warped and distorted.

Baczenas said the accident was the first of its kind in the caster operation since it opened in March.

Two hurt at 29th-Madison

Two women were injured at 8:20 p.m. Tuesday in an accident on Madison Avenue at 29th Street, when a vehicle operated by Mary V. Whitehead, 2420 Iowa St., halted to turn left, was struck by an auto driven by Teresa A. Stanton, 3120 Rodger Ave.

Mrs. Annie T. Earney, 58, of 2874 Ralph St., passenger in the Whitehead car, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, suffering pain in the head and back. She was treated and released.

Mrs. Whitehead also sustained injuries, a report states.

Both vehicles were headed south at the time of the mishap.

Tax rollbacks are signed into law

Governor James R. Thompson announced Wednesday that he has signed into law two tax relief rollback measures on purchases of manufacturing and farm machinery and equipment.

"Approval of these deferrals will go a long way toward keeping the state budget balanced," Thompson said. "If these rollback bills had not gotten to my desk, my only other choice would have been to make deeper cuts in education and other areas of the budget to keep it in balance."

Senate Bill 1064 would maintain for one more year the current 50 percent reduction in the state sales tax on the purchase of farm machinery and equipment.

The other 50 percent sales tax reduction was scheduled to be removed on Sept. 1, 1981. The bill defers that date to Sept. 1, 1982. The legislation was sponsored by Sen. James "Felix" Philip of Elmhurst and Rep. Arthur Telcser of Chicago.

Approval of the measure will reduce the revenue loss associated with the tax relief program to $24 million, saving the state $19 million in tax revenue.

Senate Bill 636 would roll back the business purchase sales tax relief to the level that was in effect from Jan. 1, 1979, through Dec. 31, 1980, thereby deferring a 100 percent sales tax break for one year, until Jan. 1, 1985. The legislation, sponsored by Telcser and Sen. Stanley Weaver of Urbana, will reduce the state's tax loss from the tax relief program to $190 million in Fiscal Year 1982.

'PERFECT EXAMPLE.' Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk points out just one of many "problems," a non-working ceiling fixture hanging through a drop ceiling, found during an inspection by city officials of a home on Monroe Street which was recently purchased. Chairman of the ordinance committee of the city council, Fisk was contacted by the buyer when the discrepancies were found after the sale and previous agreement to fix them. Fisk said that this instance is just one reason why some type of occupancy ordinance is needed in the city to protect innocent buyers.

Yellow curb lines do not prohibit parking

Four-inch striping lines being placed adjacent to curbing and the edge of pavements along many major streets are designed to aid drivers by warning them where the edge of the street is, according to a statement released by the Granite City engineering department this week.

The four-inch yellow stripes are reflective to provide greater visibility during evening travel and times of poor visibility, he explained.

3 hurt in crash today

Three young men were injured at 12:35 a.m. today when the autos of John Corey, 22 Florissant, Mo., and Michael Tatossian, 22 of 2878 Idaho Ave., collided on Route 3 at the crossover a half-mile north of West Pontoon Road.

He suffered multiple cuts, fractures, a puncture wound and head injuries and was rushed to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He then was transferred to Farnum Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

A passenger in his car, Thomas Hartwig, 29, Florissant, suffered abdominal pain and had difficulty breathing. He and Tatossian were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

Tatossian suffered cuts to his face and nose, authorities said. He was ticketed for an improper left turn.

Invites HUD to look into housing bias

"It's still pretty vague," she said.

She also said it is uncertain why more blacks do not apply to the Section 8 program.

However, she noted that in the Section 8 program, an applicant must find a housing unit that meets certain minimum standards. It is simpler to apply for residency in the conventional projects, she said.

Board attorney Joe Hill

agreed with the suggestion made by Hoskin. He said the authority needs to be told if it definitely is in violation.

Board attorney Joe Hill agreed with the suggestion made by Hoskin. He said the authority needs to be told if it definitely is in violation.

HUD has pointed out that projects of the authority's four projects for the elderly (including Brainer Homes in Collinsville) are 100 percent white and the fourth is 90 percent white.

The letter also stated that only nine percent of the residents in the authority's Section 8 subsidized housing program are black.

HUD also stated that it appears the predominantly black housing projects are not as well maintained as the white majority projects.

The authority's executive director, Janet Harlan, had stated she did not know why more blacks do not apply to live in the elderly projects.

Some elderly blacks apparently apply to live in regular family units because they want to stay in the areas

realtors, concerned about the possible effects of the new ordinance on future growth in the city.

Attorney Phillip A. Theis, representing the Granite City Board of Realtors, read a prepared statement in which he questions several of the provisions of the ordinance. He said that adoption of a new zoning ordinance "is not something that should be done without prior intensive study by those who are most familiar with present problems, conditions and future trends."

As Ray Kaegele, president of the Board of Realtors, expressed in last night's (Monday's) edition of the Granite City Press-Record, the board has previously indicated that the board wishes to be given ample opportunity to study the proposed ordinance and map and to submit its written recommendations to the city council before the ordinance is submitted for passage. We have had less than one week in which to study this matter. The board does not wish to take a negative position, but there are several aspects to the proposed ordinance which we feel need further study. Some of these were touched upon in last night's (Monday) newspaper article." Theis said.

He contended that the proposed ordinance is "excessively restrictive with respect, primarily, to the creation of commercial zones. No recognition is given to the future growth of areas of presently existing areas of the city, which presently are in commercial use."

Examples were Madison Avenue between 24th and 26th streets, the north side of Johnson Road from Nameoki Road to Edgewood Avenue, and Ponton Road from Franklin Avenue to Johnson Road.

"We believe that sizeable, authorized and existing commercial areas should be given commercial classification, rather than restrictive residential classification, as shown on the proposed zoning map. Such commercial classification should be given automatically upon demand and without cost to the owners," he contended.

"Existing restrictive covenants created by subdivision developers in the past have created choke holds on many residential areas which were very appropriate in the past, but have effectively prevented more beneficial commercial usage in recent years, due to neighborhood decline, changes in traffic patterns, etc."

"We are also concerned about the proposed restrictions on the construction of damaged improvements in nonconforming use structures. A store owner should not be put out of business because of a storm or fire loss," Theis continued.

The nonconforming use classification, which serves as a "grandfather clause," stipulates that structures already in use for any purpose may not be put out of business or forced to change by any new zoning ordinance.

Morgan said that most of the telephone calls he has received have been from businessmen concerned that their businesses could not be sold commercially when they are vacated. He pledged, "Anything that's there now can still remain a business."

A study of the proposed ordinance supports Morgan's statement. It says, "If no structural alterations are made, a nonconforming use of a building may be changed to another nonconforming use of the same or more restricted classification."

However, according to the ordinance, if use of a nonconforming building or property is discontinued for 12 consecutive months or, for buildings, 18 months during any three-year period, the building or property will fall into the zoning classification shown on the new zoning map.

Realtor Francis Judd said he objects to a provision of the proposed ordinance which would give an appointed "zoning administrator" the power to determine whether a nonconforming building damaged by fire or severe weather should be rebuilt under the same zoning. The proposed ordinance calls for the administrator to determine if repairs to the building will exceed half the value of that building before the loss.

If the repairs will cost less than 50 percent of the building's value, the administrator is to allow it to be rebuilt under its nonconforming zoning, but if the repairs exceed 50 percent of the value, then the zoning administrator is to reclassify the property into the zoning category on the new map.

"The new ordinance places it in the hands of a czar to tell me whether I can reconstruct that building. I find that interesting," Judd said.

Morgan responded, "Look at the intent. If a building burns down, the insurance company will require two bids, then will pay to rebuild the same type of building. If a businessman is about to retire, he might just put a new building up and pocket the rest of the money and the neighborhood would be left with a quonset hut."

"They (building owners) can't collect all the money off a building and put a shack up there," Morgan stated, adding, "The administrator is the same as in the old ordinance. He would just have a new name. We have called him the building inspector. Now we would call him the zoning administrator."

City Engineer Monroe Brewer noted that the provision of determining if repairs exceed 50 percent of the building's value currently is contained in the city's condemnation ordinance. He said it is in use and anyone unhappy with its application can appeal the ruling of the building inspector to a three-member board.

Wobbe noted that the zoning administrator would be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the city council. "He definitely would not be a czar and would be answerable to the council."

After the meeting, one realtor said he is afraid that such an administrator "could make things easy for friends of the mayor and the group in power and make it difficult for those in the other faction."

Judd also objected to minimum lot sizes and other requirements necessary to achieve new commercial zoning. "Suppose one of us wanted to establish a little business and none of us is in the position to pay the shocking square foot rentals that the shopping centers ask today. Does this ordinance provide an escape hatch for the poor little guy?"

"I feel that a small proprietor should have more than one choice of location if he can't pay the $11 a square foot rate in a shopping center," Judd added.

Morgan said the ordinance provides "an escape valve" in the form of more commercial zoning categories. He said that in the past, the Plan Commission has recommended denial of many zoning changes, simply because they did not want to rezone a property for a small business and watch it someday become a service station or hamburger stand.

Wobbe added, "You have to establish classifications that will satisfy the neighborhood."

This contended that the requirement of a minimum of one acre of land necessary to obtain commercial zoning would be prohibitive to some businesses. "The little key shop would not be able to meet the requirement of one acre of land. He's shut out. It's the little guy that gets hurt most."

Wobbe said the proposed ordinance, "is not carved in stone. It can be changed," and said such suggestions are the reason that the public hearing was being held.

Asked why the proposed ordinance has no schedule of fees for zoning inspections, certificates of zoning compliance or other costs, Wobbe responded, "It provides for the city council to identify a fee schedule."

He said that if a fee schedule was adopted as part of the ordinance, it would require public notices and hearings and specific waiting periods before the aldermen could increase the fees or change them. "That is an awful time-consuming process if the council found it necessary to raise a permit by $5."

Neither Wobbe nor Morgan answered a question of whether the city council could impose a heavy fee schedule on the same night that it passed the ordinance, without giving the public a chance to respond.

Realtor Carl Hoffman contended the new ordinance will allow the city administration to keep the power it presently has and objected on the basis of some of the rezoning request denied in the past. "It's political pressure," Hoffman alleged. He said the denial of a permit for a doctor's office on Madison Avenue across from Hoffman's office was "the biggest miscarriage of justice I ever saw," since the office would not have created problems for the neighborhood.

Morgan said the Plan Commission voted against that office because it had inadequate space for parking for the doctor's employees and customers and because the neighbors objected.

He said the Plan Commission also shied away from special use permits because they were being used to infringe on residential areas and "it got completely out of hand." He called commercialization of residential neighborhoods "a creeping paralysis."

He noted that the new zoning ordinance does not allow the issuance of special use permits for circumventing zoning changes. Wobbe was specifically instructed in preparing the new ordinance to disallow special use permits since they forced the Plan Commission to decide whether or not they should be granted and brought too much criticism on the commission members.

Discussion on possible commercialization of Madison Avenue from 24th to 29th Streets brought an angry reaction from one resident of the 2500 block of Madison Avenue who said he has lived there for 27 years and has fought to keep the area residential. He contended that 90 percent of the property in those five blocks is residential.

"People are still raising their children on Madison Avenue and there are plenty of other areas of the city to rent—downtown, the shopping centers, that should be commercial," he said. He added, "As far as zoning the whole thing commercial, 90 percent of us there are going to lose our shirts on our property."

Hoffman disagreed, saying that rezoning Madison Avenue for commercial use will increase the property values. The audience was divided on the issue.

Both the resident and Hoffman suggested that a survey be taken of the owners of property in those five blocks to determine if they wish the property to remain residential or commercial. They disagreed on what the outcome of such a survey would be.

Hoffman contended that the intent of the zoning ordinance is to force business either downtown or into the expensive shopping centers. As a realtor, he contended, "You can't rent property in downtown Granite City. I can buy almost any building in downtown you want and name your own terms. I hate to say it, but downtown is dead."

Alderman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward was among those in the audience and stated, "I am against zoning Madison Avenue commercial because you also have Town and Grand (the two adjoining streets) and there are some nice homes along those streets that will be infringed upon. We have to take that into consideration."

Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward also was present and said he hopes the Plan Commission can come up with a zoning ordinance acceptable to all sides before bringing it before the city council for adoption. He said that being in the center of controversies "has been rather upsetting to the aldermen on many, many instances."

Plan Commission member Barry Lohman praised the intent of the public hearing, but stated, "The only thing wrong with it is meeting is that it is 15 to 20 years too late. Instead of floundering piecemeal all these years we should have done this 15 to 20 years ago."

Morgan said the realtors and others present will be notified of the date of the next Plan Commission meeting and invited to attend to further discuss their ideas before the ordinance is submitted in final form to the city council.

fairness is fairness. She has worked hard for the city for the past five years for between $8,000 and $10,000 dollars. It will take a long time for her to catch up money wise to others," Echols said.

A budget error in the 1980-81 budget was brought to the attention of the council in which Thomas J. Scaturro, superintendent of streets, is owed $1,056 in wages. The error was corrected. His salary is $15,480.

Mayor Echols asked the council to study the tentative budget for any further discussion before it is adopted at the Tuesday, July 28, council meeting.

A copy of the new tentative budget is posted for public review at the Venice city hall.

3-car crash at police entrance

Two women were injured when their auto was involved in a three-car crash in the 2300 block of Madison Avenue, in front of the Granite City police building at 4:40 p.m. Monday.

Injured were the driver, Mable Gozia, 48, of 2902 Iowa St., and a passenger, Dorothy Roseman, 60, both of 2902 Iowa St., who were taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. of the auto of Joanne Thomas, Bloomington, Ill., and behind the auto of Joseph Buckingham, 1740 Courtenay Blvd., when Buckingham applied the brakes of her car for another auto in front of him turning into the post office. When Mrs. Gozia applied the brakes of her car suddenly, it was struck from behind by Joanne Thomas' auto and Mrs. Gozia's car then was pushed

The origin of the universe

By PROF. F. HENRY FIRSCHING
SUE School of Science and Technology

Throughout the ages, mankind has been perplexed about how everything began. There was little real information but a great deal of speculation. About 60 years ago, the first big step in understanding the origin of the universe was made. Astronomers became aware that most of the nebulae (cloudiness objects in the sky) are actually "island universes" or vast collections of individual stars at remote distances from the earth. These aggregations of billions and hundreds of billions of stars are called galaxies, and the nearest big one, Andromeda, is about two million light years away. Light traveling at 186,000 miles per second would take two million years to reach us from the Andromeda galaxy.

A further astonishing discovery was made: the farther away a galaxy is from the earth, the more rapidly it is receding from us. In other words, a galaxy 10-million light years away would be moving from us at a given velocity, but another galaxy 50-million light years away would be moving from us at a much higher velocity. Furthermore, a galaxy at 200-million light years away is moving still faster. This recession of galaxies was found to occur in every direction.

Astronomers soon realized that this "flying apart" of the universe could be explained if it were assumed that a stupendous explosion took place at a central point and flung matter outward in all directions. This concept was labeled the "Big Bang."

Interestingly, if this concept were true, then the age of the universe could be estimated. The distances to these galaxies can be found and so can the velocity of recession for each one studied. By means of calculations, the time needed for these galaxies to leave a point of common origin was found to be about 15 billion years.

About 30 years ago, these estimates deduced that a direct consequence of the Big Bang would be the presence of a uniform background radiation that would completely permeate the entire universe. However, at that time, the equipment for obtaining such a measurement was not available.

About 15 years ago, this background radiation idea was reexamined. Calculations were made of the wavelength and intensity of the radiation, and measurements of this background radiation were obtained. In every direction, during the winter or summer, daylight or darkness, the same radiowave radiation was found. It was everywhere and was the predicted background radiation generated by the Big Bang. This profoundly enhanced the possible validity of the Big Bang concept.

Recently, further refinements in the measurements showed a very slight red shift region, and in exactly the opposite direction, a blue shift region. This perturbation in the uniform background radiation gives the direction in which our galaxy was hurled with respect to the rest of the universe. We are moving toward the part of the sky called the constellation Lyra, the blue shifted region, and are moving away from the constellation Aquarius, the red shifted region. This provides another confirmation of the Big Bang concept.

But like so many discoveries, it simply moves the unknown farther back from us. We are left with some nagging questions. How did all this primordial matter originate? Why did it

Hit with a chain

Mary Hooker, 2819 E. 25th St., suffered a bump on her head when she was struck by a chain or other hard object by one of two youths who knocked on the door of her home at 12:10 a.m. Tuesday.

She said when she answered the door, one youth said to the other, "It's a chick," and the other youth then struck her head with the chain for no apparent reason. The youths fled east on East-25th St.

A witness alleged one of the youths was a 16-year-old Kirkpatrick Homes boy who was taken into custody two hours later for allegedly participating in the damaging of four vehicles in a Kirkpatrick Homes parking lot. He is to be questioned about Mary Hooker's injuries, authorities said.

OFFICIALS EXCHANGE POSITIONS. Casimir Krakowiecki, right, exchanged official positions last week at the Madison city council meeting. Vavra is now a member of the police and fire commission board. He was Emergency Service and Disaster Agency (ESDA)

Exhibiting vegetables at the fair

By CHRIS DOLY, Garden Adviser

Gardeners can earn honor and maybe some spending money by exhibiting prize-winning vegetables at County and other fairs. They can also experience the challenge of competition and the friendliness of other gardeners.

Before planning exhibits and harvesting crops, get a copy of the fair book or premium list so that available categories can be studied. There are variations between fairs, so read all the rules. Pay special attention to time for making entries as well as the quantities and size specified for each display.

Vegetables in any display should be at their peak of maturity and quality at the time of judging. Sometimes it is difficult to have vegetables at the prime state when the fair is held. Crops that mature early can sometimes be held by picking them slightly immature and placing them in good storage conditions until a day or two before fair time. Other crops should be picked at optimum maturity and may require some refrigeration for best storage. Immediately after harvest, vegetables such as tomato, pepper, beans, carrots, cucumber and cantaloupe should be refrigerated. But place them in the vegetable crisper or a plastic bag to prevent dehydration.

Vegetables that have been kept cool should be brought out and warmed enough before judging so that they do not "sweat" before or during judging.

When selecting vegetables for exhibition, remember that there are several points a judge considers for all types of vegetables. These are quality, condition, uniformity and whether the entry is typical of its variety. Quality refers to the best and prime eating condition of any vegetable. Quality also means the best color development, shape, texture and size. The largest size does not necessarily mean the best quality and therefore does not guarantee a prize.

Condition also is important. It is an indication of how the crop has been handled and grown. Crops should be free of dirt, cuts and bruises, as well as insect or disease damage. Also, they should be free of any waxes and residues of treatments that may have been used for insect or disease control.

Uniformity is evident and an important consideration in judging. Each specimen on a plate and each vegetable within a display should be of similar size, color, maturity and shape. The ability to produce a uniform crop is a measure of cultural ability.

Additional information on displaying vegetables is included in the University of Illinois Circular 1150, "Vegetable Gardening in Illinois." This publication is for sale at County Extension Service Offices or at the Office of Agricultural Publications, 123 Mumford Hall, 1201 West Gregory, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

STREAMLINE PLAN

President Carter announced proposals on March 25, 1979, to streamline the federal regulatory process.

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

SIUE requests $679,580 for program development

Equipment funds for the multi-purpose facility under construction at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and planning funds for Phase I of a permanent dental education facility at the University's Alton campus head up a preliminary listing of capital budget requests for Fiscal Year 1983, submitted by the University to the SIUE Board of Trustees.

The multi-purpose facility request is for $221,500 for durable movable equipment not installed by contractors during construction, and $99,700 for site improvements. Construction work on the physical education, recreation and athletics facility has been under way since May 18 and is expected to require nearly two years to complete.

The request for the School of Dental Medicine building is for $766,100 for architect's fees, plus reimbursables, for planning the first phase of a permanent facility, consisting of instructional laboratories and classrooms totaling 36,300 square feet. Construction cost for the first phase is estimated to be $10.4 million.

The Board of Trustees approved preliminary FY 1983 capital budget requests totaling $16.6 million for the SIUE System, with the understanding that a system-wide priority listing will be approved in September before the requests are submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education as part of the System's Resources Allocation and Management Program.

The preliminary plan includes seven regular capital projects and one energy conservation project for SIUE, totaling $5.5 million, and 10 regular capital projects and six energy conservation projects for SIUC, totaling $11.2 million. Property acquisition and planning funds for the School of Medicine at Springfield are the highest priority items on the SIUC list, at a cost of $2.8 million.

The other SIUE projects, in the priority order listed by the University are:

East St. Louis Center, sixth floor remodeling, $942,100; minor renovation, School of Dental Medicine, $155,200; Wagner Building, remodeling, $736,400; relocation of service drive to library and construction of new service drive and loop for multi-purpose facility, $833,600; replacement of roofs, Rendleman and Supporting Services Buildings, $411,000 and remodeling for energy management, $497,500.

Step-father faces charges

William E. Margrave, 46, Cache, Ill., a former Granite City resident, was charged with trespass, assault and disorderly conduct, for allegedly threatening his step-daughter, Rhonda Hurt, 3223 Maryville Road, at her apartment at 9:15 p.m. Sunday.

She alleged he came to her apartment and threatened her life if she testified against him in court today on a battery charge, according to official police reports.

She said she ran to a neighbor's apartment and called police. He stood in the hallway, yelled obscenities and threats and refused demands that he leave, she alleged.

Police arrived and arrested Margrave on complaints signed by Rhonda Hurt.

SIUE requests $1.02 million to equip multipurpose building

New state resources totaling $679,500 are needed for program requests included in the Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP) planning documents for Fiscal Year 1983 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, approved last week by the SIU Board of Trustees for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

New programs requested and the amounts sought in new state appropriations are: Urban Mass Transportation, to be offered at the East St. Louis campus, $45,000; and Home Economics, also to be offered at East St. Louis, $30,936.

The proposed program in home economics is a major revision of a proposal submitted to the IBHE previously. The curriculum is also designed for junior level students who have obtained lower division electives and general education courses elsewhere.

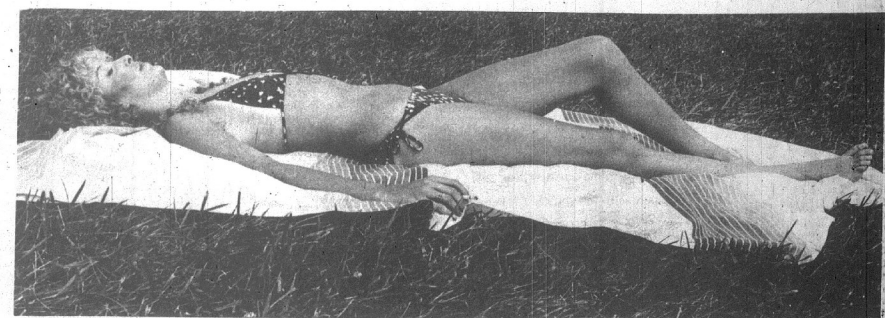

The RAMP documents also include a draft report of the SIUE Planning Advisory Committee, currently being discussed by faculty, staff and students, and program review information, including a statement of the review processes at the University.

Also requested are three special analytical studies: Library Resources for Developing Professional Programs, $136,982; School of Dental Medicine: Minority Recruitment and Retention, $28,724; Engineering, B.S. and M.S., $20,000; and Doctor of Dental Medicine, $65,000.

University officers said the program in urban mass transportation has been developed for students who have junior level standing through the associate degree programs at State Community College or through the completion of general education and other lower division requirements. The curriculum is designed to train students in the management of various transportation systems.

More than 95 million bicycles on road

Due to renewed interest in physical fitness and energy conservation more people are turning to bicycles as an alternative means of transportation. In fact, latest figures show there are over 95 million bicycles in use today — more than ever before.

And with more bicycles on the road during summer months, the potential for bicycle accidents increases. This makes it especially important for everyone, not just bicycle riders, to understand the basics of bicycle safety. To help, Robert Heglund of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company's loss prevention department suggests the following tips:

Before you even get on the road, select a bike's that's right for your size and intended use. Make sure all equipment is in good working order and secure. When buying a bicycle for a child, parents should take the child with them to ensure a proper fit. Follow your dealer's suggestions and owner's guide to keep the bike property maintained — especially the tires and brakes.

Use reflective tape on the front, back and sides of your bicycle. Headlights and rear reflectors are a must for nighttime cycling. Liberty Mutual's Heglund also suggests wearing light-colored or reflective clothing at night or in bad weather. Wearing a bike helmet is a good idea.

Ride single file and on the right with the flow of traffic. Size up the whole scene, not just what is immediately in front of you. Be sure to watch out for cars pulling into traffic from the curb and for car doors opening suddenly. Never carry passengers or anything that obstructs your vision or interferes with your control of the bicycle. Carry small articles in a basket attached to your handlebars or the rack behind the seat.

Above all, obey all traffic laws and bicycle regulations in your community. Give pedestrians the right of way. Use hand signals for turns, stops and lane changes. And don't be afraid to use your voice as a signal, if necessary.

Motorists should respect the bicyclist as another vehicle on the road. Obey traffic laws, and signal properly. Study the whole traffic scene, not just one car in front of you. Be prepared to meet bicyclists on the road — especially at intersections. Double check for cyclists when merging into traffic or opening car doors.

Share the road. Don't force bicyclists onto the shoulder. It could be dangerously rocky, causing the cyclist to fall in your path.

Don't try to get cyclists' attention by blaring the car horn — you could startle them and cause them to swerve or lose control of their bikes. If you want to notify a cyclist of your presence, gently tap the horn a few times.

Remember that both bicycles and cars have a legal right to the road. Safe driving and cycling conditions are possible only if everyone cooperates.

Arrest man on damage charge

Richard G. Brown, 24, of 2261 Grand Ave., was charged with criminal damage to property and a state charge of possessing cannabis after incidents last week.

Patricia Milton, 2319a Washington Ave., said she awoke at 4:30 a.m. Friday to find her front door open, held only by a security chain, and heard someone on the landing. She slammed the door closed and heard the intruder leave.

She named a suspect, who police found at Niedringhaus and State streets. He was searched and police alleged finding a bag of marijuana, a pipe and two packages of cigarette rolling papers in his possession. She signed a complaint alleging he broke a window in her door to reach in and unlock the door.

In Good Spirits!

By GEORGE CREWS
If you're in the process of planning a vacation to either coast this summer, a most pleasant one-day side excursion is to be had at virtually any of the vineyards and wineries in either California or New York. Long tradition welcomes visitors with open arms. Your visit should include an interesting tour which will, undoubtedly, further your appreciation of all that is required to make excellent wine. Most wineries include a short vineyard tour along with a visit to the processing area followed, all of which is explained by the experts. In most cases, the visit is ended by a pleasant, unhurried sampling of not only the local wines, but, in many cases, cheese, sausages, strawberries and a lot of hospitality. Information on locations, services and accommodations may be obtained through the state chambers of commerce of California and New York.

While a witness watched, a young man and another person stole an air compressor and a string lawn trimmer from the maintenance office of the Granite City Board of Education facilities at 20th and Adams streets at 4:55 a.m. Monday.

The witness, an employee of Nestle Co., said he saw a young man, 19 to 21 years old, run down 20th Street to the school district fence, cut a hole in the fence with some kind of bolt cutters and then signal with a flashlight to a car parked nearby.

The auto, which had its trunk open, then drove through the hole in the fence and the young man loaded the compressor into the trunk and the string trimmer into the back seat before getting into the auto and leaving the scene west on 20th Street.

The thief was described as having brown hair to his shoulders, being about 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighing about 165 pounds. The driver, who never got out of the auto, was described as having blond hair to the shoulders and wearing a cowboy hat. The witness was unable to determine whether the driver was male or female.

The auto was described as a white over dark blue 1971 to 1973 Ford Torino with Illinois license plates.

When the teen saw a police car nearby, he laid face down in the weeds and hid. Police arrested him, charged him with a curfew violation and contacted a juvenile court official, who picked him up at the Granite City police station and took him to the Madison County Juvenile Detention Center in Edwardsville.

Army will bear cost in pump blast; estimated at $30,000

An Army investigation report into the hydraulic failure that disabled the Granite City Sewage Treatment Plant Lift Station, June 22 cites equipment failure combined with operator error.

The pump plant, which is located on the Army's St. Louis Area Support Center (SLASC) and operated by the Army, pumps wastewater from the Granite City's treatment plant into the Mississippi River when the river rises above the 22 foot mark. Normally the river is below that mark and the treated wastewater is gravity fed into the waterway.

However, on June 22 the Mississippi had reached the 25.8 foot mark as measured at Eads Bridge and the wastewater was being pumped out of the treatment plant. Earlier one of the two sluice gates had malfunctioned, and at the time of the accident personnel were searching for the cause of the problem, believing that possibly an interlock on one gate was causing the other to fail.

While searching for the cause, pump house workers lowered the second sluice gate in an effort to correct the problem. This procedure requires approximately 15 minutes to either fully close or open the gate electrically and nearly four hours manually, the report shows. With one gate closed and inoperative and the other gate about three quarters closed, one of the five pumps automatically started because of the build up of water from the Mississippi river in a water holding area under the pump house. In an effort to speed up the process of getting this water back to the river, a second pump was started, nearly silencing the first.

With the operable sluice gate nearly closed and three high pressure pumps operating, there was no place for water to go. Without a built-in automatic safety system to shut down the pumps and relieve the back pressure, a one-half inch 2 foot by 7 foot steel access door to the well area under the pump house, was blown off its mountings by the pressure and hurtled against the ceiling.

Very quickly the pump house was flooded by a four foot wall of water and the electrical equipment disabled eliminating the means to discharge the treated water into the river.

Twenty four hours later, except for physical damage to the building, the pump house equipment had been replaced or repaired and was operating normally. Lt. Col. Chester D. Tutor, the SLASC Commander, was on the scene of the mishap within minutes after the problem developed and under his direction and the cooperation of Granite City's officials and others what could have become a serious problem was averted, according to the report.

When the pump house equipment was disabled, Granite City's incoming untreated sewage had no place to go. The city's storm water pumps were used to divert this sewage into a nearby six million gallon treatment tank. The rate of flow into this holding tank indicated it would overflow within a few hours spilling untreated sewage in the surrounding area.

The Granite City and Long Lake Volunteer Fire Companies Pumps were unable to keep up with the incoming flow. Three portable 6,000 gallon per minute pumps were secured and placed into operation. Using these pumps plus an agreement with the Illinois-American Water Company to divert its 300,000 to 500,000 gallons of water a day from the City's sewage system to their holding area were enough to eliminate the overflow problem.

Once the pump house equipment was dried out, replaced and tested, it was returned to normal service and the portable pumping equipment shut down.

It is estimated that the mishap caused about $30,000 damage. This includes damage to the pump house structure, rental of commercial pumps and electrical equipment repairs and replacement. According to Lt. Col. Tutor the current costs and expense to inspect the pumping system will be borne by the Army.

Venice to lose seven manpower workers

The City of Venice may lose seven street department employees in August or September, Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols told Tuesday night.

The mayor said he has not received official notification from the Office of Manpower, but some of the employees had received letters advising them of termination. Apparently, the letters did not give an exact date.

"With a cut like this in manpower, we are going to need the people's help in keeping trash picked up and in barrels," Echols said.

It was noted by the mayor and council members that a lot of trash collects under parked cars that people do not move when the city sweeps the streets. Then when the car moves away, wind will blow the debris into the streets and people get the impression the streets are not swept.

Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. said, "When people cut down trees they need to stack the limbs inside their fence, but the people must be home for the street department to pick up the limbs. The people will have their cars locked or dogs are inside the yard. I think all they need to do is call the street department and set up a time for a pickup."

A citizen questioned why the pumps at the river are not turned on by a person living in Venice, instead of East St. Louis, then when it rains, it would stop water more quickly from backing up into basements.

Street Superintendent Thomas J. Scaturro said that the pumps were running when the heavy rains of last Friday came.

"The pumps can handle only so much water and if more water comes down in heavy rain, it will back up. The pumps must be turned on manually and the river must be above 18 feet," Scaturro said.

"Anyone with basements must have drain plugs and if there are any facilities, such as a toilet, in the basement, people must install shut off valves," Echols emphasized.

Alderman John Erwin suggested the citizens complain to the Metro-East Sanitary District which have control over the pumps.

A letter was read inviting city officials to attend the Venice Independent Little League baseball dinner at 2 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 9 in the Venice recreation center.

The council, in emergency action, approved the purchase of a seven and one-half ton Rude air conditioner for the west side of the police building, which includes the jail area.

$1,496 taken in GC till-tapping

Police are attempting to identify a man and two women who stole $1,496 in cash from Gem Jewelry, 1904 State St., about 9:30 a.m. Monday.

The owner said the three entered the store and the man, who appeared to be in his early 30s, asked for an appraisal of a dozen silver-plated teaspoons he had in a brief case.

One of the two women with him went and sat on a desk at the back of the room.

When the three left, the owner discovered a bank bag containing the cash had been removed from the top drawer of the desk on which the woman sat.

The man was described as black, of medium build, having medium-length black hair, about 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighing about 165 pounds and having a light complexion.

One black woman, who had a tattoo of Virgo on an arm and a freshly-stitched cut to her forehead, was about the same age, 5 feet, 5 inches tall, and weighed about 120 pounds.

The other black woman had only three teeth in her upper jaw. She was about 18 to 22 years old, 5 feet, 3 inches tall, thin and weighed about 110 pounds, police were told.

A search of the downtown area by several policemen failed to locate anyone matching the description of those being sought.

Two seminars to cover soybean cyst problem

By RONALDE.

CORNWELL.

Extension Adviser

Two seminars covering the Soybean Cyst Nematode problem are scheduled during July.

One seminar will be held at the Holiday Inn at Marion on July 22. The second seminar will be held July 23 at the Holiday Inn at Vandalla.

The seminars are jointly sponsored by the University of Illinois and the Land of Lincoln Soybean Association.

Soybean Cyst Nematode has become one of the more serious soybean pests in the State of Illinois causing thousands of dollars in income loss. These seminars are being conducted in an attempt to provide soybean producers with the information on how they might change their management practices to offset the effects this pest has on their production.

Pre-registration for the seminars is requested. The pre-registration fee of $7.50 which covers lunch should be sent to University of Illinois Regional Extension Office, 901 W. Washington, Benton, Ill. 61812.

Dr. Leroy Biehl, University of Illinois veterinarian, reports that Pseudorabies in swine continues to be a major problem for Midwestern pork producers. One hundred thirty-one new cases were diagnosed in Illinois last year. Iowa leads the nation with 534 new cases.

Swine producers should take steps to keep the problem under control. When new additions to the herd are brought on the farm, they should be placed in a separate building. They need to be isolated from all other animals for 30 days before being tested. This isolation and testing procedure should include all animals that have been exhibited at fairs.

Producers with farrow to finish operations should not purchase feeder pigs. Even in a feeder pig operation, hogs should be quarantined from cattle and sheep to prevent the spread of Pseudorabies to other species.

The pork producer should take special precautions when returning home from visiting a fair, a sale barn, a terminal market or another producer's farm. They shouldn't walk through corn near their own operation without changing clothes and shoes. In fact, producers should keep all human and animal traffic through their swine buildings to a minimum. Keeping other people out of your hog barn may save you a lot of problems with your swine herd in the long run.

Frequent watering and frequent fertilizing are the keys to keeping beautiful hanging baskets.

Baskets hanging under eaves do not benefit from the extra moisture of dew or light rain. Sun shining on the sides of the container warms the soil and speeds the evaporation of water from the plant and container cause more evaporation from hanging plants than plants close to the ground or among other plants. All these factors make it tough for you to keep these baskets lush and green.

The best way to water hanging baskets is to soak them in a tub of water or the kitchen sink for a few minutes to thoroughly wet the soil, pot and moss. Drain for a few minutes and rehang. In sizzling hot weather this may be three times a week, maybe every day. Watch the plants closely to detect early stages of wilt. Your plants will do best if you can dip the plants before the plants show this first stage of wilting.

When it's impossible to dip the basket in order to water it, then water gently from the top with a sprinkler head attached to the hose. Add enough water to cause some leakage out of the bottom. Water again just as the first wilting symptoms appear.

Fertilizing every month is the final ingredient to beautiful hanging baskets. Use a house plant fertilizer solution. Follow their recommendation. When watering from the top, add the solution with a watering can.

Park district trip to Amish 'country'

A visit to an Amish market and the Rockome Gardens and a tour of the countryside will be part of a one-day trip to Arcola, Ill., planned for the Saturday, Aug. 15, by the Granite City Park District.

Reservations for the excursion are now being accepted at the Wilson Park office, with park district residents having first priority and non-residents being placed on a waiting list.

A chartered bus will leave the Wilson Park Ice Rink parking area at 7:30 a.m. Aug. 15 and return between 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., according to Harold Brown, park district director.

Rockome Gardens provides a relaxed look into the past and offers the visitor a variety of landscaped flower displays, amid natural rock formations.

The 20-acre grounds also include rock shops, a grist mill, broom shack, an Amish bakery and other interesting areas featuring various crafts, Brown said.

The Aug. 15 date was selected to conform with an "Amish Market" at the gardens, when local Amish families display and sell woodcrafts, baked goods, handicrafts and similar fine wares, the director advised.

Upon arrival in Arcola, a guide will join the local visitors for a 1½-hour tour of the countryside during which the Amish way of life is explained.

A noon meal will be served at the Rockome Family Style Restaurant, consisting of a full course Amish dinner, featuring homemade noodles or dressing, homemade bread and apple butter and the widely known Shoo-fly pie.

Cost of the trip is $25 per person, which includes bus transportation, entrance to the gardens, dinner and Amish land tour. All fees must be paid at the time reservations are made, Brown said.

Triplets demolish Centralia, 18-0

Cripps leads home run derby

By TERRY MACKIN
of the Press-Record
CENTRALIA — It was evident.

Just ask the Triplet players. Or Manager Eldon Warfield. Or the handful of Tri-City fans that made the long journey to Centralia.

The Tri-City Triplets play a better, more relaxed brand of baseball in non-league games. And there was more proof here Wednesday when the Triplets pounded Centralia pitching for 18 runs and received strong pitching from Paul Eads to demolish the hosts, 18-0.

"I think we have a psychological advantage in these games," Warfield said.
"There is absolutely no pressure on us. We get enough of that in league games. These games give the guys a chance to relax and play the kind of ball they are capable of playing."

Leftfielder John Linhart agreed.

"We're just more looser," Linhart said, laughing at his choice of words.

Whatever the reasons were, the Triplets had a little time in proving to Centralia starter John Kell that they did not make the long trip to go home empty handed.

In the first inning, Linhart singled and went to third on a single by Danny Patterson.

Linhart then scored on a ground out by Bob Ford. The Triplets led 1-0, and the fans thought they might just see a good ball game.

They were wrong. Tri-City exploded for 11 runs in the third inning to put the game out of reach. In fact, the only real contest of the evening was to get the full five innings required for a complete game in before rain poured from the threatening sky.

Patterson led the inning off with another single and then Ford bloomed a Texas-League over the glove of Centralia's second baseman Steve Mick to put runners on first and second. Rick Daily then walked to load the bases, and then Daren DePew coasted a walk off Kell for an easy RBI. After Jeff Puryear flew to centerfielder Paul Jensen, who made an excellent running catch, George Jarvis walked to force in another run. The Triplets led 3-0.

Then Kevin Cripps, getting a chance to bat as the designated hitter, stepped to the plate, jaw puffed from a wad of tobacco. In only his fifth bat of the Legion season, Cripps surprised himself, as well as his teammates, as he slammed a
field fence.

"The last one that I hit was in Khoury League, so I was a little surprised," Cripps said after the game, smiling in between spits from the oversized chaw of tobacco bulging from the left side of his mouth. "It was a fastball about belt high."

But the Triplets were not totally overwhelmed by the amazing bat of Cripps. Kevin Sykes singled sharply up a fastball over the fence in left field that left the Centralia
fans shaking their heads.

It was then time for more Triplet muscle, a characteristic which has been scarce lately.

Patterson sent a Kell fastball high over the left field fence that bounced off the top of a tennis court several feet beyond the fence. The three run blast sent Kell to the dugout quickly, as the Triplets had jumped to a 9-0 lead.

But the Triplets did not greet Centralia's new pitcher, Clyde Pruitt, with open arms. But a few smiles did surface after Ford placed a
fans shaking their heads.

Kick Daily then singled and went to second on a wild pitch. He later scored on a ground out to the shortstop by DePew. Puryear then popped up to the catcher to end the inning, but not until the Triplets had raced to a 13-0 lead.

The only threat Centralia made to score was in their fourth inning. After Jarvis hustled to make a running grab of a Jeff Breeze foul ball, Kell singled to left field.
Jensen then walked. But then Paul Wilkens hit a hard grounder at Daily at third, who promptly tagged Kell and rifled the ball to Jarvis for a double play to end the inning.

"I feel secure at third. I played there in high school (Granite City South), so I'm comfortable," Daily said. "I really like it over there."

Warfield later said that the infield Wednesday night would be the same the rest of the year. It consists of Daily at third, Patterson at short, Sykes at second, and George Jarvis at first.

The Triplets then erupted for five more runs in the fourth inning to take a 18-0 lead. Three walks and three Centralia errors helped the Triplet effort. Ford, Daily, and Cripps, who almost had his second home run of the evening when he placed a shot against the left field fence, had the only hits of the inning for Tri-City.

Eads went the distance for the Triplets, striking out two and only allowing three hits.
Two of Centralia's hits came from shortstop Mike Gorge, who was the only bright spot of the evening for Centralia.

The Triplets banged 14 hits, with Patterson leading the way with three of them, including four RBIs.

Now if they could save some of the runs from non-league games District 22 games...

Alton clinches tie for top spot

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor

ALTON — Tri-City's North Division hopes got another pop in the jaw here Tuesday.
Tri-City's slipped Legion Triplets slipped further behind front-running Alton here Tuesday night when they dropped a 6-2 decision at Moore Park to the first place club.

Alton, behind the hitting of shortstop Ross Brakeville, clinched a tie for first place in District 22's North Division with the victory. Brakeville had two doubles, a single and two RBIs.

The only club with a mathematical chance to catch Alton is second place Edwardsville. Tri-City (12-8 in district play) remained in a tie with Collinsville for third place. Collinsville also lost Tuesday to Bethalto in a District 22 game.

What last month looked like a chance for a premier season has developed into a dogfight for Tri-City. The Triplets most likely will have to play a make-up game Saturday with Collinsville for the third place spot, unless the Triplets can win tonight against Cahokia, and Collinsville loses to Freeburg. That's not likely to happen, what with Freeburg being the weakest team in the district.

"We make some errors and we lose the game," said Tri-City manager Eldon Warfield. "It's getting to be the same old story."

Some of the errors the Triplets made were costly.
They were also borderline between being errors and hits. But they were errors.
The Triplets committed five in all. Something that shouldn't happen to a team dominated by experienced players — many with a season of college baseball under their belts.

Take the Alton second inning for instance. Alton second baseman Doug Orban led the inning off with a single off Tri-City starter Kevin Cripps. Kent Schelle

followed with another single.

After Cripps struck out Clark
Frye, designated hitter
J. Frye, singled both up the middle. Cripps, who also plays for Lewis and Clark Junior College, grabbed the ball and had a gimme double play ball in his glove. But instead of firing to second to nail the runner going in there, he decided the try and get Orban going into third base.
A good throw would have gotten him. But it wasn't a good throw. It hit the dirt two feet from third baseman Joe Scherfke and went to the fence behind the base. Orban scored. Schelle went to third and Twitchell wouldn't up at second base. Leadoff man Dan Morrissey singled both runners home but was gunned out by centerfielder Bob Ford trying to stretch it into a double.

After that rocky second inning, Cripps settled down and pitched well. But he had dug his own grave. And he knew it.

"I don't know," Cripps said. "I guess I just wasn't thinking on that play (at third on Orban). I was trying to get the lead runner. You

Records fall in Paddlers win

GRANITE CITY —

Tuesday wasn't a perfect night for swimming. But it didn't seem to bother Paddlers swim team at all.
In a meet that was shortened because of constant lightning, Paddlers shattered nine records and defeated SWISA rival Gas Light of Collinsville in a key match-up held at Paddlers pool.

John Amisch broke his own record in the boys age 11-12 division, easily defeating the rest of the field. Amisch broke his old time of 1:11:06, with a 1:09:78 to erase the old record.

In the girl's age 9-10 50
meter freestyle, Kelly Reed broke the old record of 34.48, held by Patti Martin, with a time of 34.38. And in the boy's age 15-18 200 meter individual medley, Shawn Allen broke a record that was held since 1972 with a time of 2:37:28. The shortened race of 2:37:5 was held by Paddy Baggot.

And they didn't stop there.

In the girl's age 9-10 50
meter breast stroke, Dana Hankins raced for a time of 43:28 to erase her old record of 43:44. And in the girl's age 13-14 division, Cindi Strotheide turned in a time of 1:17:18 in the 100 meter backstroke to break the old record of 1:18:09 held since 1976.

Then John Amisch broke his second record of the evening in the 50 meter backstroke with a time of 36:64. The old record of 38:54 was held since 1979 by Jason Jolly.

And then it was time for the relay teams, where three records were tossed aside.

In the girl's 8-under 100 meter relays, the Paddler team of Kristina Goff, Cathy Martin, Jenny Baker, and Lynn Yehling, broke their old record of 1:40:62 with a time of 1:35:74. And in the girl's age 13-14 division, Cindi Strotheide, Leslie Allen,

Lynn Hankins, and Linda Kuberski shattered their old record of 2:25:31 with a time of 2:24:87. And as if that wasn't enough, in the girl's age 15-18 division, Denise Darnell, Laura Jensen, Anita Durborow and Angela Durborow set a new record with a time of 2:32:17 in the 200 meter relays. The old record was 2:38:43.

And even though the meet was called off after 50 events, all of the records will count. Only 44 events are needed in a meet to make it official.

So while the weather was definitely nothing to cheer about, Paddlers found a glimpse of sunshine through the clouds. They won the meet and stay undefeated and also set nine records.

It was possibly the biggest meet of the year for the Paddlers diving team against SWISA rival Gas Light of Collinsville. Earlier in the season, Coach
McCormick picked Gas Light as one of the top teams in the conference. Tonight

GRANITE CITY — Mike McCormick stood behind the diving board at Paddlers pool, arms pressed straight against his sides. He stared into the empty water, waiting for his chance.

crowd that trimmed the edges of the pool.

"First dive, 1.6 degree difficulty"

McCormick climbed upon the board and studied the water below him. He glanced to his left, and received an encouraging smile from his mom, the coach. He raised his hands high above his head, and stared.

The crowd clapped seconds after the splash.
McCormick surfaced, and pulled his small, tanned body from the water. He then sat next to his Paddler teammates on the concrete to the right of the board.

The judges sitting by the lifeguard's chair slowly lifted the white cards on their laps.

"McCormick's first dive.
Score 4.44."

The divers clapped their approval.

The sides of the pool were covered with people sitting in lawn chairs drinking sodas and popcorn. The humidity of the evening made hard not to desire a quick bellyflop into the water.

Tri-City bats pound Freeburg

By TERRY MACKIN
of the Press-Record
MASCOUTAH — Confusion continues to follow the Tri-City Triplets, but it was not enough to upset their bats as they trounced Freeburg Post 550, 14-1 in a district contest here Monday.

And Manager Eldon Warfield was just happy his team arrived on time for the game.

Since the Triplets were scheduled to play at Freeburg, Warfield and his players naturally went to Freeburg High School with hopes of gaining a victory against an under .500 team. But upon arrival, the Triplets wore the only uniforms in sight.

"I was shaking," confessed a relieved Warfield. "I could just see us forfeiting, and I've had enough of these lately." He was referring to a protest that was allowed by Cahokia in regard to a forfeit it was forced to make for a p.m. game in Granite City July 2.

The game will be played Thursday night in Cahokia at 8 p.m.

Warfield then went by the home of Freeburg coach Gary Hearne and was notified by his wife that the game was to be played in Mascoutah at the city's park. Back in their cars went the Triplets.

Close to twenty minutes later, and after a course in driving that would make Starks and Hutch bite their nails, the Triplets arrived in Mascoutah, finally.

And by the way they punished the baseball, it appeared as if arriving at a game only minutes before starting time is a secret for success.

Led by the neat, five-hit pitching of Keith Burton and the solid bats of John Linhart and Joe Schefke, Tri-City breezed past Freeburg. And it didn't take them long to get started.

Designated hitter Kevin Sykes led off the game with a single to left, and then stole second. Linhart then reached base on a throwing error by Freeburg catcher Marty Dillman, the first of six that he committed in six innings of work. Sykes scored and Linhart raced to right when the ball sailed into right field. After Danny Patterson struck out, Linhart scored when Dillman tried to pick him off third and threw the ball into left field. Bob Ford then walked, and Rick Dally singled and both advanced on another throwing error by Dillman.

Daren DePew reached base on an error by shortstop Jim McGuire to load the bases, before George Jarvis struck out to end the rally.

And the Triplets never let up.

In their second inning, Jeff Puryear led off with a base hit just by the out-stretched glove of third baseman Gary Sayers, becoming more disenchanted with the job because he felt several major decisions concerning men's athletics at SIU, including the hiring of Allen VanWinkle as men's basketball coach by a committee, bypassed his office. However, Sayers had no comment on the speculations.

Speculation had risen lately that Sayers was becoming more disenchanted with the job because he felt several major decisions concerning men's athletics at SIU, including the hiring of Allen VanWinkle as men's basketball coach by a committee, bypassed his office. However, Sayers had no comment on the speculations.

bounced past by the right-fielder. Sykes then singled and stole second to put runners on second and third, but Schefke was called out on a catcher's interference call trying to score on a wild pitch. Patterson then doubled home Sykes to give the Triplets a 4-0 lead after two innings.

And that was all that District 22 all-star pitcher Burton needed as he constantly kept Freeburg on their heels with a good assortment of fastball and off-speed pitches to gain the district victory.

"I got a little tired at the end, but I think this was the best I've thrown all year. And I got plenty of support," Burton said, completely drenched from the night's humidity.

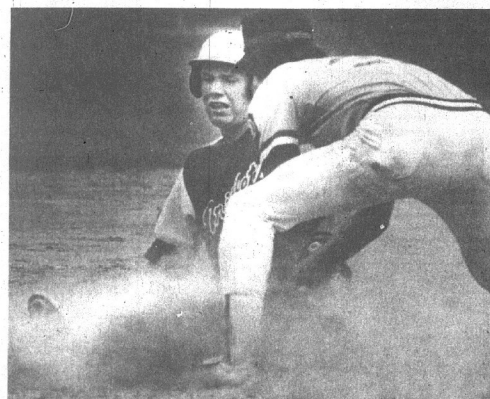

Schefke led the way for Tri-City with a triple and an inside-the-park home run in the six run sixth inning. Ford, Puryear, Sykes, and Dally also contributed two hits apiece to the 16-hit Triplet attack.

And though he entered the field with a frown, Warfield left in very good spirits.

"Keith pitched a good game. He was shaky at the beginning, but settled down and did another steady job. We needed a complete game, and he came through."

But what Warfield was really happy about was that his team arrived in time for the first pitch.

"I guess you could say I'm glad that we showed up."

Washington girls defend crowns

NEW YORK — A pair of Washington teams have successfully defended national championships in the 1981 USSF-Lowenbraun National Women's Cup, staged July 2-3 at Seattle's Memorial Stadium. In a championship doubleheader played July 3 before nearly 1,500 partisan fans, Seattle's

F.C. Ramlosa, winners in the inaugural women's championship last year in Miami Beach, defeated the Rivercity Kickers 2-1 to take the Open Division crown, while Seattle's Blue Angels edged the Dallas Flash 2-1 to duplicate its Over-30 title.

The national women's cup, co-sponsored by the USSF and the Miller Brewing Co. and hosted by the Washington State Women's Soccer Association, saw F.C. Ramlosa down Rivercity behind Joan Dunlop's goal in the 13th minute. It was Dunlop who scored the decisive goal that gave the Seattle side the 1980 national championship over Camp Springs, Md. In a rematch of last year's Over-30 final, a goal by Marcia Tampourios in the 68th minute broke a 1-1 tie to give the Blue Angels a narrow win over the Flash. The Flash's Susan Taylor (14th min.) and the Blue Angels blanked the Texas team 2-0 in Miami Beach a year ago.

F.C. Ramlosa and the Blue Angels earned berths in the finals with convincing July 2 semifinal triumphs. Dunlop's two goals led Ramlosa to a 4-2 win over Camp Springs, Md., while Adams scored three goals in leading the Blue Angels over the outclassed Reston (Va.) Sochers 5-0. In other semifinals matches, Rivercity broke a 4-game winning streak by the favored Dallas Sting, with Chris Goldacker scoring two first-half goals enroute to a 3-0 triumph. The Flash got two goals from Mary Bonham and went on to an easy 4-0 blanking over the Lake Erie Retreads of Portland, Ore.

Five of the eight regional champions were participating in the national finals for the second straight year: Camp Springs, Rivercity Kickers, Flash, F.C. Ramlosa and the Blue Angels.

Sayers leaves SIU-C

CARBONDALE — Gale Sayers announced his resignation here Monday as Men's Athletic Director at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Sayers, 38, is a former All-America and All-Pro running back. After playing at the University of Kansas, he was All-Pro five times with the Chicago Bears. His official statement cited a desire to "pursue a number of opportunities in private business." However, speculation had risen lately that Sayers was becoming more disenchanted with the job because he felt several major decisions concerning men's athletics at SIU, including the hiring of Allen VanWinkle as men's basketball coach by a committee, bypassed his office. However, Sayers had no comment on the speculations.

Park tennis set

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Park District will be sponsoring two tennis tournaments this summer. The Granite City Park District Resident Tournament will be Aug. 7 at the Wilson Park courts and the GCHS South High School courts. Play is limited to two events except for father-son doubles or mixed doubles. There must be four entries in each event or it will be cancelled. Default time is 15 minute after scheduled time. Entry fee is $2 per person, per event. Entries must be in by 12 p.m. Friday, July 31. Play for youth will begin at 9 a.m. and for adults at 9 p.m.

Divers

was their chance to prove it. The wooden fence surrounding the pool area was decorated with parents faces. Dads were still in the suit and tie from work, and moms were in shorts. It was easy to tell whose kid was diving by the loudness of the cheers coming from each section.

Suddenly the attention was captured by a piercing cry of pain under the white roof near the concession stand. Whispers hissed through the pool area. Most people on hand went to the area to see if they could lend a helping hand.

The divers went on with business, but none really noticed until a few minutes later.

Coach McCormick

returned with the news that the small boy had been poked in the eye with a toy he had been playing with. People within hearing distance shook their heads with pity.

The score was close. It didn't take Albert Einstein to figure out the constant identical scores being read over the microphone.

"4, 4, 4, 4." As the divers got older in age, the scores grew, but stayed very close. Gail McCormick stood close to the microphone, helping the man determine the scores from the judges. She still appeared calm, but some of her divers asked for advice. She draped an arm around their shoulder, and spoke quietly. The divers returned to their seat.

After completing their Child Olympics

GRANITE CITY — The 1981 Summer Olympics of the Tri-City Park Tabernacle Child Development Center will be held at the Center, 3400 Maryville Road here on Thursday, July 23, 1981, according to Tracy Green, coordinator of the event.

Approximately 60 children from the ages of 2 to 7 years of age will be taking part in the activities.

The events that the children will be competing in include the long jump, 50-yard dash, softball throw, bean bag toss, big wheel race.

The race and game heats will be divided into different age groups starting with the 2 and 3 year olds and 4 and 5 year olds and 6 and 7 year olds.

First, second and third place ribbons will be presented, along with honorable mention ribbons going to all participants.

The public is invited to attend. The festivities will get underway at 10 a.m.

Alton

just can't make mental mistakes like that."

Alton came up with a single run in the fifth inning and two more in the sixth to ice the game away.

Tri-City made its only run at Alton in the sixth inning. And the Triplets were trying to fight off an impending rain shower in the process.

Tri-City second baseman Dan Patterson led off the sixth with a single. The skies darkened. Ford doubled. The thunder started. Shortstop Rick Dally walked to load the bases. The rain started.

Daren DePew, the tying run, stepped to the plate and the thunder rolled. He walked, bring in Tri-City's first run. A wild pitch by Alton starter Greg Bergesch scored Ford. The rain got stronger. With Dally at third and DePew at second, rightfielder Jeff Puryear popped out to Brakeville. The rain slackened off. First baseman George Jarvis was called out on strikes. The thunder stopped. Schefke flied out to deep right-centerfield. The skies brightened.

Alton was out of the inning. "We had our chance in the sixth and didn't do what we had to," said Warfield.

Brakeville doubled home Alton's two runs in the sixth to give his team at least a share of first place in the division.

NAACP HONOR. The Rev. John Henry Williams of the Madison Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), has received a medallion for his work in fund-raising. Reagan does not impress NAACP

By MICK STRANGE of the Press-Record
Mrs. Helen (Clemons) King, president of the Madison Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has returned from the 72nd annual NAACP convention in Denver, Colo., and said neither she nor any of the other delegates were impressed with President Ronald Reagan. Mrs. King was a voting delegate to the convention in Denver, Colo. "I really did not get much out of President Reagan's speech. I was there when he came in and there when he left. The convention was respectful, as he is our president, but I am not sure about his concern toward the poor, both black and white. An official comment printed in the convention program titled "The NAACP and the Reagan Budget," reads in part: "While the President and his aides insist his economic proposals will defeat inflation, and, following increased investment, assure economic growth, others are less convinced. The New York Times editorialized March 29, 1981, 'that the Reagan Budget was not a war against inflation but a war against the poor.' So it appears, unfortunately, the prescription offered by the President, based on a distorted diagnosis of the Nation's ills, will only exacerbate the problem, intensifying the despair of the poor and eroding the hard-earned gains of the middle classes." Mrs. King accepted a medallion for the Rev. John Henry Williams, past president of the Madison Branch of the NAACP. Rev. Williams was one of 12 persons from Illinois honored for his work in fund-raising for the NAACP at a special life membership luncheon at the convention. Mrs. King said, "I want to thank the branch for sending me and I feel I have gained much information for all of the members. I wish every person in Illinois would join the NAACP. The NAACP is the largest and oldest civil rights organization that is always in the forefront. The Madison branch meetings are the first Thursday of every month at the New Salem Baptist Church in Madison and everyone is welcome. "We are all proud of Rev. John Henry Williams' honor," Mrs. King said.

Faces charge on forgery

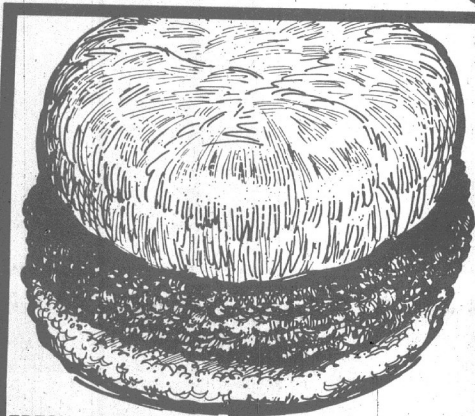

Wanda L. James, 24, of 815 Washington Ave., was arrested last week on a felony charge of forgery. She was first arrested Thursday at Keesee Drug Store in Bellemore Village Shopping Center where she allegedly attempted to use a forged prescription to obtain drugs. She was released at that time, pending further investigation. The Madison County state's attorney's office issued a felony informational document against her Tuesday and she was re-arrested Thursday.

Sir William Osler once wrote: "I have three personal ideals. One, is to do the day's work well and not to bother about tomorrow. The second ideal has been to act the Golden Rule, as far as in me lay, toward my professional brethren and toward the patients committed to my care. And the third has been to cultivate such a measure of equanimity as would enable me to bear success with humility, the affection of my friends without pride, and to be ready when the day of sorrow and grief came, to meet it with the courage befitting a man."

MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES is available to assist the bereaved should that day of sorrow and grief arrive. Through professional attention to details, concerned and understanding assistance to the distraught and by the availability of a facility with surroundings befitting the emotions of the moment, we are available to serve our friends and neighbors in their hour of need.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

"In the life of a young man, the most essential thing for happiness is the fit of friendship."

Tempel-Beide

St. John United Church of Christ was the scene of the wedding on June 27 of Miss Brenda Ann Beide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Beide, 2424 Lynch Ave., and Lyle Martin Temple Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle M. Tempel Sr., 4104 Braden Ave.

Bouquets of summer flowers adorned the altar and hurricane lamps holding burning tapers marked the pews which were decorated with white satin bows for the 6 p.m. double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Sheldon Culver and assisted by the Rev. Michael Weaver.

Organist Alan Miller accompanied Mrs. Richard Branding as she sang, "One Hand One Heart," "Because," and the Lord's Prayer. Larry Heagy and Kelly Cottrell, a cousin of the bride, played guitars and sang, "Devoted to You," "Follow Me," "Longer," and "The Wedding Song."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Beide wore a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta. Re-embroidered lace encrusted with seed pearls adorned the mod bodice which also featured a Queen Anne neckline and full bishop sleeves. From the empire waistline, the full skirt, which was trimmed with matching lace and hemmed with organza, was a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta.

Maid of honor, Miss Ann Uram, and bridesmaids, Miss Julie Cottrell, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Judy Nicholas, were gowned alike in pale blue lacy knit over taffeta floor length dresses.

Their gowns were fashioned with cap sleeves, blouson bodices and sweetheart necklines, that formed into a Grecian design in the back, and sunburst pleated skirts.

Each attendant wore an open crown blue picture hat and carried Colonial bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Kevin Tempel, a brother of the groom, was best man. Barry Tempel, also a brother of the groom, and Tom Ketner, Kenneth Horn and Charles Tempel, cousins of the groom, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Darlene Pfueger, a cousin of the groom, presided at the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Beide selected a formal pink lustreglow halter style gown with print tullestia chiffon capelet, complemented with white accessories and a pink camellia wristlet.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Tempel, was attired in a silesta knit apricot print floor length dress featuring a blouson bodice and pleated skirt. Her accessories were in a beige hue and she wore an apricot camellia wristlet.

Guests were received at a reception held at the Croatian Home. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Charlie's Restaurant.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High School North in 1978. The bride was employed at Granite City Steel since her graduation, and the groom is presently a second class petty officer, stationed with the Coast Guard in Duluth, Minn.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the newlyweds will reside in Duluth, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Snyder

Snyder-Rosales

The wedding of Miss Laura A. Rosales and Army Private Nick L. Snyder was solemnized on June 20 at St. Elizabeth Roman Catholic Church.

Nuptial selections were provided by Judy Barnum, vocalist and guitarist. The Rev. Henry Schmidt officiated at the double ring ceremony at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Rosales, 4064 Lake Drive. The groom is the son of Mrs. Edith Snyder, 36 Kaseberg Lane.

The semi-full skirt and chapel train was enhanced with lace motifs and encircled with scallop lace at the hemline.

She wore a Chantilly lace Australian style hat with the left side brim turned up decorated with a cluster of silk roses. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was attached at the back, and she held an arm bouquet of silk roses.

Maid of honor Cynthia Stedde and the bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Wood, selected identical gowns fashioned of apricot crepester with pleated skirts. Schiffrin trim accented the fitted bodices, high necklines and cap sleeves.

They wore white derby hats trimmed with apricot chiffon netting. The junior bride Angela K. Rosales, a cousin of the bride, was dressed like the bride and wore a hat to match the bridal headpiece.

David J. Rosales, the bride's brother, served as the ringbearer.

Ted L. Snyder, a nephew of the groom, attended the ceremony as best man. Jeff Reynolds, a brother of the groom, was the groomsmen and Ed Lorden, a cousin of the bride, hosted the guests.

Mrs. Rosales, mother of the bride, was attired in a formal apricot floral gown designed with a blouson bodice, half sleeves and pleated skirt. The groom's mother, Mrs. Snyder appeared in a full length blue polyester dress with semi-short sleeves.

Guests were received at a reception held at the Moose Hall and the rehearsal dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

The beach is a great place to collect materials for use in landscape floral arrangement. Water washed and colored stones of all sizes and shapes can be used as the base of arrangements, as can shells and interesting pieces of driftwood.

Smaller stones, shell fragments and pieces of wood can contribute beauty and substance to any arrangement. Even weather-worn glass can be valuable. Keep an eye out for good materials as you walk the beaches at any time of the year.

A touching feeling comes over me when I think of the many brave men who loved their country enough to sacrifice their lives for it. So I salute the flag where I want to, when I feel that special feeling.

I salute the flag whenever it is respectable, I am inspired to salute the flag when I hear the Star Spangled Banner. A touching feeling comes over me when I think of the many brave men who loved their country enough to sacrifice their lives for it. So I salute the flag where I want to, when I feel that special feeling.

Scholarship to teen institute

Five Madison County students, including Theresa Schuette of Granite City, are being awarded scholarships to attend the Illinois Teenage Institute in Monticello next week. It was announced this week by Jean Schram, youth services coordinator for the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency (MCCADD).

Four scholarships to the institute, which will be held next Monday through Saturday, are being provided by MCCADD and the fifth scholarship is the Rusty Gregory Memorial, sponsored by the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependency Association.

The late Mr. Gregory was a staff member of MCCADD and was on the board of directors of the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependency Association. He was well known throughout the state association as a dedicated worker in the field of alcoholism treatment.

Scholarship recipients, besides Miss Schuette, are Wendy Bradshaw, Jayne Cuff and Danny Keith, all of Collinsville, and Chris Hermansmeyer of St. Louis. The Illinois Teenage Institute, which is in its seventh year, continues to grow with increasing community and state support. It is described as a unique educational experience, consisting of six days of presentations by professionals, small group discussions, workshops and recreation. A camp setting provides a relaxed atmosphere.

Gerrit L. DenHartog, executive director of the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Dependency Association, the institute's parent organization, said, "The program goes far beyond a discussion of alcohol and drugs. Effective approaches to prevention must deal with basic life questions and must do so in an honest, open atmosphere, thereby enabling participants to examine their own attitudes and feelings. In the process, a great deal of inner strength and determination to face life's challenges emerge and a 'natural high' replaces the destructiveness of substance abuse."

Participants in ITI are encouraged to return to their communities and spread their enthusiasm to other youth. Many are helping in their schools and communities, helping other teens with problems and participating in prevention programs.

DenHartog said that the most visible sign of the institute's effectiveness has been the growth of local prevention activities which "snowballed" out of ITI. Thus, a series of local programs known as "Operation Snowball" are spreading throughout the state.

A Madison County Snowball was sponsored by MCCADD in May and another is being planned for 1982. Operation Snowball is based on peer initiative and youth helping other youth to find personal growth through alternatives to alcohol and drugs, organizers say.

Members of the class include BAC alumni Scott Branstetter and Connie S. Endermuhle. Others in the workshop are Renee J. Cox, Cynthia Heidenbrand, Jill Deanne Kirkham, Jill Suzanne Pace, Susan Brockman, Lori Senge, Deborah Kay Goadby, Terrie Lynn Hamilton, Diana M. Peterson and Mary Peter.

BAC's visual arts committee invites the public to attend opening, which will be in the second-floor gallery.

Copeland named chairman of state education board

A former state legislator, who served on the House Education Committee, has been elected to chair the State Board of Education for the next two years.

Edward J. Copeland, 47, of Highland Park, was chosen by state board members at the board's annual work conference in Itasca. Dr. Adrienne Y. Bailey, 36, of Chicago, was elected vice chairman and G. H. "Bud" Thompson, 50, of Prophetstown, was re-elected secretary.

Copeland, who has served on the board since its creation in 1974, succeeded Donald F. Muirhead of Decatur as chairman. Copeland served in the Illinois House of Representatives from 1967 to 1971. He received Illinois Best Legislator awards from the Independent Voters of Illinois in 1968 and 1970. He received his law degree from Northwestern University and is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Foss, Schuman, and Drake. Dr. Bailey was identified earlier this year as one of 75 young leaders in education by Phi Delta Kappa, an international association of educators. Dr. Bailey, who is senior staff associate at the Chicago Community Trust, is a former president of the National Association of State Boards of Education and a member of the Education Commission of the States. She holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree in Educational Administration from Northwestern University. Dr. Bailey was also one of the original appointees to the State Board in 1974. She succeeds Carol N. Johnston of Des Plaines as vice chairman.

Thompson has served on the state board since 1978 and has been the board's secretary since 1979. He is a former president of the Illinois Association of School Boards and was president of the Prophetstown-Lyndon

School District 3 Board of Education from its formation in 1969 until his appointment to the State Board. Thompson is president of G. Thompson and Son, Inc., a family-owned livestock business in Prophetstown. He attended Augustana College and the University of New Mexico. The 17 Illinois State Board of Education members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate for 6-year terms. Eight members are appointed from the First Judicial District—four from Chicago and four from the rest of Cook County. One member is chosen at-large and two members are selected from each of the state's four remaining judicial districts.

Illinois educators meet

More than 100 Illinois educators will meet today and Friday at the Springfield Holiday Inn East for the annual conference of the Illinois Association of Regional Superintendents of Schools and the Illinois State Board of Education.

Dr. Robert Mandeville, director of the Illinois Bureau of the Budget, was the conference keynote speaker during the first general session at 9 a.m. today.

State Superintendent of Education Donald G. Gill is the scheduled speaker at the conference banquet at 6 p.m. today. Legislators from each of the six Educational Service Region areas who made significant contributions to education during the General Assembly's spring session will be honored that evening with "Friends of Education" awards presented by the regional superintendents' organization.

On Friday, the Illinois "Environmental Teacher of the Year" awards will be given to one elementary teacher and one secondary teacher.

The two-day conference also offers workshops on a variety of subjects, including updates on legislation, teacher certification and school finance, as well as seminars on the Educational Products Information Exchange, transportation and declining enrollment. The California Model for Educational Service Agencies will be discussed during the second general session at 9 a.m. Friday.

Music for Thursday's banquet will be provided by the "Kids from Tiskilwa," directed by Doris Hamilton, from Tiskilwa Community Unit District 900 in Bureau County.

BAC names candidates for presidential post

The Presidential Search Committee appointed by the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees submitted names of seven candidates to the board at a special meeting last week.

The seven, who range in age from 34 to 53, were selected for the position of BAC president. Among those recommended are community college administrators from

Dr. Vincent S. Darnowski, President of Housatonic Community College, Bridgeport, Conn. Darnowski has been president of Housatonic since 1974. Before that he served as vice president of Delaware County Community College in Media, Pa., from 1971 to 1974.

Dr. Richard G. Erzen, Assistant Vice President of Corporate Education for NCR Corp., Dayton, Ohio. Before taking his current position in 1978, Erzen served as president of the College of Lake County in Grayslake, Ill., for 10 years. He was Academic Dean in charge of Academic and student programs for Illinois Valley Community College in Oglethorpe, Ill.

Dr. Richard W. McDowell, Vice President for Strategic

Planning, Community College of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. Before assuming his current position in 1980, McDowell served as vice president and executive dean for the Boyce Campus of the college.

Dr. Lewis W. Ogle, President Reading Area Community College, Reading, Pa. Ogle has held that position since 1974.

He was director of the south campus of Southeastern Community College in Keokuk, Iowa, from 1970 to 1974. He was an adjunct assistant professor at Western Illinois University, Macomb, Ill., from 1972 to 1974.

Dr. Raymond A. Pietak, Provost of Community College of Philadelphia, Pa. As provost, Pietak is chief academic officer for the college and is responsible in the president's absence. He has served in the post since 1969.

Dr. Kenneth E. Shibata, Executive Vice President of Waubesa Community College, Sugar Grove, Ill. Before moving to his present position in 1978, Shibata served as dean of instruction for eight years and as administrative assistant to the president for six months at Waubesa.

Dr. Bruce Wissore, Acting President of Belleville Area College, Belleville, Ill.

Wissore was vice president for executive services at BAC before assuming his current post in July 1980. He was an assistant to the president at the college from 1973 to 1977.

Announcement of the candidates' names marks the end of the search committee's tasks, which was to select four to seven candidates and to submit an alphabetical list of their names to the board of trustees by July 1.

The board will complete the selection process. The search committee, which was appointed by the board in April, was directed to choose candidates based on nine qualifications that included management skills, education, leadership, experience dealing with collective bargaining, interest in educational quality, effectiveness in personal relationships, integrity, understanding of the community college concept and community involvement.

Board member John Becker of Sparta chaired the committee. Other members include board members Avery Schermer, Granite City, and Patricia Bartokas, New Athens; Leo H. Konzen, Granite City attorney; Jack Haskell and Barbara A. Taylor, BAC teachers; Carol Hudack, BAC secretary; Lee H. Knoebel, BAC administrator; Kevin J. Hale, BAC Student Senate President; and Robert J. Bauer, President of Empire State Co., Belleville.

Presidential Search Consultation Service of Washington, D.C., was retained to assist the committee in the selection process.

Edgar praises legislators for highway safety laws

Sec. of State Jim Edgar has given the recently adjourned General Assembly high marks for passage of legislation aimed at improving highway safety in Illinois.

"The recently concluded session had the best traffic safety record of any in recent memory. The members of the General Assembly are to be commended for the strong concern they have shown for Illinois motorists, bicyclists and pedestrians."

"By far the single most important achievement was the passage of a tough drunk driving law that will take more drunk drivers off the road and should reduce the staggering toll of 1,000 fatalities and 96,000 injuries they cause in Illinois each year," Edgar said.

Edgar also cited several other traffic safety accomplishments including:

A bill (SB 401) that requires semi-annual mechanical inspections of ambulances and other emergency medical vehicles, which was proposed by his office. It passed both Houses unopposed and is currently awaiting the Governor's signature.

Legislation (HB 293) that raises the first time fee for a drivers permit to generate additional revenue for the Driver Education Fund. It also is on the Governor's desk.

A proposal by Edgar to have the Illinois Motor Vehicle Laws Commission study the effect of the minimum driving age on traffic safety in Illinois;

Defeat of several attempts to raise the 65 mph speed limit, which has been credited recently by the Illinois State Police for saving 123 lives each year in Illinois;

The General Assembly's

defeat of efforts to abolish driver education programs in Illinois schools. "Right now, five people die in Illinois each day and more than 400 are injured in traffic accidents. With the legislation passed this session, we can reduce those mind-boggling tolls and make our roads and highways much safer," Edgar said.

Bi-State info service cut

Beginning Saturday, Aug. 1, Bi-State telephone information service will be closed on Saturdays and Sundays. The weekend service is being eliminated to reduce operating expenses. Weekend information hours will remain 6:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Don Schmitt, Transit Information Director for Bi-State, said, "By eliminating the weekend service, more staff can be used during the peak hours of operation, which means that overall we will probably be able to answer more calls for information." While Schmitt said most people call during regular business hours he urged passengers who plan to use weekend bus service to plan ahead and remember to call during the week if they have questions.

Bi-State provides information to over one million callers a year, and has the best record in the nation for answering calls for transit information.

The numbers to call for Bi-State route and schedule information are: St. Louis, 773-1120; Alton-Wood River, 254-0623; Belleville, 233-3700; East St. Louis-Granite City, 876-1144, and TTY service for the deaf, 982-1555.

TREATED, RELEASED
Mrs. Laura E. Williams, 81, of 2139 Orville St. was treated and released from St. Elizabeth Medical Center, following a traffic accident at 2:55 p.m. Friday at Nameoki Road and Lindell Boulevard. The auto Mrs. Williams was driving collided with one driven by Ray E. Robins, 43, of 2597 Revere's Route. Robins was issued a traffic citation charging him with disobeying a traffic light. He is to appear in court at 9 a.m. on Aug. 7.

SIUE budget request up 11.9%

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees, last week approved guidelines necessary for development of the 1983 Fiscal Year Resources Allocation and Management Program (RAMP) for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The guidelines include percentage increases for salaries and prices. They also specify the funding levels for operation and maintenance of new space and for new and expanded and improved program requests, and other special items.

In addition, the guidelines identify the details of a salary catch-up plan for faculty and civil service employees for Fiscal Year (FY) 1983 and future years.

The final RAMP request for the SIU System is expected to be submitted to the Board for approval at the September meeting of the Trustees in Edwardsville. It is scheduled for presentation to the IBHE on Oct. 1.

System officers said the guidelines are projected to result in a budget request, in addition to the salary catch-up plan, for new operating funds for SIU at Carbondale of $14.4 million, or 13 percent; for SIU at Edwardsville of $5.5 million, or 11.9 percent; and for the office of the chancellor of $8.8 thousand, or 9 percent — a total for the System of $19,978,900, or 12.7 percent.

The guidelines include: 9.5 percent salary increases for all employees; price increases of 8 percent for general items; 15 percent for SIUC, 22 percent for SIU School of Medicine, and 14.7 percent for SIUE for price increases in library materials; 19.9 percent for SIUC, 18.4 percent for SIU

School of Medicine, and 15.1 percent for SIUE for price increases in utilities; operation and maintenance funds totaling $408,700 for new space at SIUC and $382,900 for SIUE; and new and expanded and improved program and other special items totaling $3.03 million for SIUC and $979.6 thousand for SIUE.

In addition, the salary

catch-up plan for FY 1983 recommends a two percent increase for faculty and administrative-professional staff, and a three percent catch-up for civil service employees.

With the salary catch-up plan included, the budget request guidelines and estimates provide for a total increase of 14.1 percent for the SIU System.

Young victim of firebombing is recuperating

Melinda McCleery, 8, who was seriously burned in a firebombing of her home, 1709 Courtenay Blvd., July 6, is recuperating slowly in the burn unit of St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis.

County relatives said this week. Her condition is considered stable and she is expected to undergo minor surgery tomorrow to prepare her for plastic surgery in the near future. She suffered burns from the neck down and doctors estimate the burns are over 75 percent of her body.

Cards and letters are appreciated and Melinda is able to read them, family members said. Cards may be sent to her in care of the Burn Unit, St. John's Mercy Medical Center, 615 S. New Ballas Road, St. Louis, Mo., 63141.

The Madison County

sheriff's department is in the midst of an intensive investigation into the firebombing. A bottle containing gasoline and a flaming wick was thrown through the front picture window into the living room of the McCleery home, where Melinda and another child were sleeping.

The fire caused extensive damage to the house and the father, Wesley, suffered burns to his hands when he tried to extinguish the flames. All other occupants of the house escaped unharmed, except Melinda.

Relatives said Melinda was most upset that among her possessions destroyed in the fire was a large doll collection. "We told her we would get her new dolls. She has a lot of relatives and we will see to that," her grandmother, Marjorie McCleery, pledged.

Dr. H. C. Butts dean of SIUE dental medicine

Appointment of Dr. Herbert C. Butts, 56, as dean of the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine, announced by Dr. Earl Beard, acting vice president and provost of SIU at Edwardsville, is to be effective Aug. 1, subject to ratification by the SIU Board of Trustees.

Dr. Butts will succeed Dr. Henry M. Chierick, who resigned to become dean of the College of Dentistry at the University of Nebraska. Dr. Philip Hoag, associate dean of the SIU School of Dental Medicine, is serving as acting dean in the interim. Dr. Butts has been associate dean for academic affairs of the College of Dentistry at the University of Tennessee Center for the Health Sciences in Memphis since January 1978. He previously had served four years as editor-in-chief of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Butts' work experience includes nine years in the private practice of general dentistry, 23 years in dental education, part-time and full-time, and two years with the U.S. State Department Foreign Aid Program.

After working as a dental education adviser for the U.S. State Department in El Salvador and serving one year as chairman of the department of operative dentistry and clinical director of the El Salvador School of Dentistry, Dr. Butts taught at the University of Iowa in the department of operative dentistry and at St. Louis University School of Dentistry as associate professor of restorative dentistry before accepting a position in 1967 as professor and chairman of the department of operative dentistry at the Medical College of South Carolina School of Dentistry.

The institutional names later were changed to the Medical University of South Carolina College of Dental Medicine, where Dr. Butts was named assistant dean for admissions and student affairs in 1970. He was appointed acting dean of the College during the illness of the dean in 1971 and continued serving the institution until his appointment with the ADA in 1974.

A native of Dover, Tenn., Dr. Butts completed his predoctoral training at Memphis State University and received his degree of dental surgery degree at the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry. He also is a graduate of the Foreign Service Institute in Washington, D.C. and received a master's degree in operative dentistry and education at the University of Iowa.

Dr. Butts engaged in the private practice of dentistry in Memphis and served as a part-time member of the faculty at the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry before accepting a full-time position with the institution in 1958. Two years later, he began his work as an adviser with the U.S. State Department.

Dr. Butts is the recipient of numerous awards and honors, including the Outstanding Alumnus Award of the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry in 1975 and five commendations for his work as editor of the ADA.

Mrs. Butts is the former Quay Coker of Memphis, and they are the parents of four children.

GC woman killed

Mrs. Norma J. (Tedder) Hand, 55, a lifelong resident of Granite City, was fatally injured in an accident Thursday, July 9, while vacationing in Sarasota, Fla., and was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital in Sarasota at 11:59 p.m.

Mrs. Hand and her sister, Mrs. Nadine Quentin of Cape Girardeau, were visiting a friend Mrs. Jean Boren, 55, formerly of Cape Girardeau. They had planned to vacation there for two weeks and had arrived in Sarasota by plane an hour prior to the accident.

Mrs. Boren is a second cousin to Mrs. Nancy Weiss-Hayes of Caseyville, formerly of Granite City.

According to authorities, Mrs. Hand and Mrs. Boren were walking along a busy street when an auto driving at a high rate of speed went out of control and struck both women. They both were taken to the Sarasota hospital where both were pronounced dead upon arrival.

Mrs. Hand graduated from Granite City High School in 1943 and from Missouri Baptist Hospital School of Nursing in 1946. She later received a B.A. Degree in Nursing through Eastern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She worked at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for 10 years and as a social worker for the Department of Public Aid for five years. In 1969, Mrs. Hand began employment as a nurse in the Granite City School District and was currently serving in that capacity at Granite City North High School.

Mrs. Hand was a member of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church and also belonged to the Candlelighters Club, and the Alumnae of Missouri Baptist Nurses Association. She also belonged to the Illinois School Nurses Association and had served as secretary for the Marquette and Kaskaskia Divisions.

She and her first husband, Joseph Loftus, owned and operated an auto parts store, formerly located in the 1800 block of Edison Ave., until his retirement. He died in April 1964 and her late husband Floyd Hand died in 1979.

Mrs. Hand was also preceded in death by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard (Lily) Tedder, a sister Mrs. Mabel Barnes and two brothers, Marvin and Virgil Tedder.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Judith Loftus) Allen of Ellisville, Mo.; one son, Michael J. Loftus, Granite City; two sisters, Mrs. Quentin and Mrs. Roland (Marguerite) Kennedy of Edwardsville; and four grandchildren.

Seek better tax timing

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record
(Last article of an 11-part series)

How to "win friends and influence people" in three ways is the tightrope-walking task that faces James Barton, Madison County supervisor of assessments.

1. Some mechanism must be found to speed up the assessment and taxation process so that governmental agencies can reduce the borrowing that they do to meet operating costs.

Aided by new state legislation, a speed-up may be accomplished, not in time for the summer 1981 collection, but perhaps by the 1982 collection.

2. Barton also must help provide a tax base big enough to meet local governments' revenue needs. This is essential, not only because it is important that the agencies function effectively, but also to keep on good terms with the elected officials who appoint—and confirm the assessment officers.

3. And he must keep taxpayers as happy as possible, in order to limit their dissatisfaction with government. This is best accomplished—to the degree he can achieve it—by holding assessments to a reasonable level and by assuring uniformity in the way property valuations are determined.

To help make governmental financial ends meet without excessive taxation of any one individual or family or company, Barton seeks to keep the whole property tax process viable through remedial steps when needed, including legislation.

For example, in the 1970s, Barton played an active role in encouraging what he considered responsible Springfield action while the General Assembly was endeavoring to modernize farm assessments.

One potential provision that he succeeded in altering would have exempted homes situated on farmland. Entire subdivisions of tax-free homes might have been developed in agricultural areas, he feared, if such a big taxation loophole had been created. The result would have been an excessive burden on the non-farm tax base.

Farm taxation again was the subject of legislation in the 1981 General Assembly session that ended June 30. Lawmakers approved a new formula for assessing farmland, based mainly on productivity rather than the market value of farmland.

Barton had a "lower profile" during the latest legislative session but nevertheless took an active interest in the Springfield deliberations. His chief critics are farmers who are unhappy with their assessments and have formed an Eastern Madison County Organizing Committee.

Another key item of state legislation enacted this spring and summer is aimed at ending delays in the compilation and mailing of annual real estate tax bills.

Effective next year, the bill provides for township assessors to use duplicate tax books from the previous year on which to base their new valuations, instead of waiting for county assessment protest hearings to be completed.

This may enable the assessors to start work in January and complete their assessments by mid-April, sponsors of the legislation believe. The sponsors include State Rep. Sam Wolf of Granite City.

Such a speed-up could set the stage for county hearings to begin by June. Final figures then would be established once the protests had been heard and acted upon, with both sets of books made identical.

Instead of county-level assessment tasks lasting from about October to June, it is hoped to advance this to June-January or June-February timing. Computations, billing and collection then could take place in the spring instead of the late summer or early fall.

Cities end their fiscal years in April, and school districts finish their years in June. The earlier they can receive new taxes, the less necessity they will have for anticipating the following year's taxes to meet year-end costs.

The less borrowing they have to do, the more they can avoid paying interest costs—a saving for taxpayers.

The Finance Committee of the Madison County Board also has been considering allowing initial property tax billings to be done through a "partial payment" method.

Tax bills would be based on previous assessments, and would then be updated when the current year's assessments have been entered and adjusted.

Another way of completing assessment hearings faster would be to have more persons conducting the hearings. State's Attorney Donald Weber has suggested that the three-member Board of Review be increased to six members.

Robert Harris of Granite City is the review board chairman and its members are Fred Finck of Godfrey and Terry Francis of Glen Carbon. The latter is serving on an extension of his latest two-year appointment, pending a decision on whether to choose a new member or reappoint him.

Harris and Francis are Democrats and Finck is a Republican.

A Democrat, who later took another job, and Republican Carl Cain of Bethalto became qualified for possible service on the assessment review panel early this year.

If Francis is replaced, his successor will have to be a Democrat, since that party by its majority status is entitled to two of the three seats.

Four more Madison County residents were certified as eligible for appointment to the Board of Review after passing a state examination June 30. The test was administered by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

Those passing were Mrs. Shirley Voegle of Granite City, John E. Schuck of Marine and James Whitt of Edwardsville, all Democrats, and Roger O. Schubert of Alton. Schubert voted Republican in the last primary election after casting Democratic ballots in earlier primaries.

Review board appointments are made by County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, and ratified by the County Board.

Hagnauer has not decided whether to double the size of the review board. If this is done, an emergency need—the urgency of prompt tax collections—would be cited.

Decisions related to the Board of Review may be disclosed at the next County Board meeting on Wednesday, July 15.

The deadline is Aug. 24.

Act to control claims by funeral directors

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education is moving to make it unlawful for a funeral director or embalmer to make false or misleading statements about the laws concerning the disposal of human remains.

In addition, the Department intends to prevent those in the funeral profession from discouraging the sale of less expensive funeral merchandise or services and from suggesting that a customer's concern for price is improper.

Those are among the elements incorporated in proposed new rules for the administration of the Illinois Funeral Directing and Embalming Act. The proposed new rules will be the subject of two public hearings the Department has scheduled. The first one is set for 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 15, in its offices on the 17th floor at 55 E. Jackson Blvd.,

Chicago, Illinois 60604. The second is slated for 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 29, in its offices on the 3rd floor at 320 W. Washington St., Springfield, Illinois 62766. Those who can not attend a public hearing or prefer to submit written comments and viewpoints may do so. The deadline is Aug. 24.

Granite City needs $3.3 million to upgrade its combined sewers

It will cost at least $476 million for 132 Illinois communities to meet state pollution standards governing overflows from combined sanitary and storm sewers, according to a report published by the Illinois Institute of Natural Resources, the state energy agency.

The environmental benefits that would be gained primarily improved water quality in rivers or streams near the communities, are uncertain, notes the report, Economic Impact of Combined Sewer Overflow Regulation in Illinois.

The list of Illinois communities in which some of the sewers are combined includes Granite City. The report said that 32 percent of Granite City sewers are combined and that the estimated cost to meet quality standards is $3.3 million.

INR has presented the report to the Illinois

Pollution Control Board, which sets environmental standards in the state. The Board will conduct hearings beginning in July to receive public comments on the report. The Board has the power to modify or eliminate existing environmental regulations.

State law requires that INR evaluate the costs and benefits associated with any proposed state environmental regulations. The Institute also can conduct such studies regarding existing regulations that appear to have an adverse economic impact. This is the first such study to be completed on an existing rule.

Combined sewers carrying both sanitary wastes and stormwater are common in Illinois, particularly in those towns or parts of towns built before 1900.

They are a source of environmental concern because they are intentionally designed to overflow into rivers or streams. The overflows act as safety valves during storms, releasing storm water and sanitary wastes that otherwise might back up into basements or streets.

Illinois law requires that combined sewer contents and overflows be treated to protect water quality. To meet the standards, communities may need to install separate sanitary and storm sewers, enlarge sewage treatment facilities or construct systems to carry sewer overflows to treatment plants.

There have been numerous complaints that such projects are inordinately expensive and that the cost will reduce the amount of funds available for other pollution control efforts. State law originally set 1975 as the deadline by which most communities were to have met the standards, but delays have been allowed because of the difficulty in obtaining needed funding.

Some 1.2 million residents or 22 percent of the state's population outside Cook County are served by combined sewers, the study team found. The affected communities range in size from a few hundred people up to populations of 53,000.

It was estimated that construction costs for the affected communities would total at least $476 million, and annual operating costs would exceed $72 million.

The communities themselves would have to provide at least 25 percent of the needed funds with the state and federal governments providing the remainder under current environmental funding programs.

Multi-office banks legal after Jan. 1

Gov. James R. Thompson has signed into law legislation authorizing multi-office banking in Illinois through bank holding companies and community service facilities effective Jan. 1, 1982.

The legislation, SB 578, sponsored by Sen. Roger Keats, Kenilworth, and Rep. James McPike, Alton, divides the state into five banking regions. Under the new law, bank holding companies can acquire additional banks in the holding company's home region or in any one contiguous banking region.

The new law also permits a bank to establish one community service facility in the county where the bank is located or outside the county as long as it is within 10 miles of the home bank.

McKENDREE NURSING PROGRAM IN ALTON

McKendree College will offer its bachelor of science in nursing completion program beginning September 1981 in Alton.

Accredited by the National League for Nursing, the program is the only one of its kind in Southern Illinois specifically designed for associate degree nurses, as well as for graduates of a hospital diploma program. The college maintains its bachelor of science in nursing program at the main campus in Lebanon, in addition to programs in Alton and Marion, Ill.

'We need a doctor' theme of 1981 physicians fair

Several dozen Illinois communities will have the opportunity to hang their "we need a doctor" signs at the third annual doctor's fair in Springfield, Ill.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine will sponsor Doctor's Fair '81 in cooperation with the Illinois State and Sangamon County Medical Societies, the Illinois Hospital Association and the Illinois Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons. The day-long meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 9, will be hosted by Memorial Medical Center.

The goal of the fair is to allow representatives from those Illinois communities seeking a physician an opportunity to talk with physicians and students from the SIU School of Medicine. Medical students and residents from other Illinois, Indiana and Missouri training programs as well as any physicians already in practice are being invited to attend.

Forty-three booths located in an outdoor tent will be used by the community representatives who work to raise awareness of their town including the advantages of settling there and what medical facilities exist. Towns are expected to continue their use of audiovisual presentations, brochures, foodstuffs and souvenirs as part of their effort. Fairs have been held at the School the last two years in September.

The fair is being held again because of continuing requests from community leaders for a convenient and concentrated opportunity to speak with physicians who would consider practicing in downstate Illinois. The School of Medicine, through its Practice Opportunity Program, currently is working with over 150 Illinois communities, has held planning and consulting meetings in 90 of them and last year published a directory of towns seeking physicians.

"The fair has become a regular part of our ongoing effort to produce, recruit and retain physicians for central and southern Illinois," says SIU Dean Richard H. Moy, M.D. "With such positive response the last two years from both the towns and the over 200 students and residents who attended, it is obvious that the fairs need to continue."

Illinois communities interested in participating who have not been contacted by the School may call John F. Record, Division of Community Medicine, 217-782-5770.

Plans continue on complex

GRANITE CITY — Plans are continuing for the proposed 30-acre soccer complex which is to be built east of the Village Lane Apartments and adjacent to the Steele Field Soccer Fields in Granite City near Pontoon Beach off Pontoon road.

Plans originally started on the project nearly a year ago, but unexpected snags developed. Now, however, the newly-formed Granite City Amateur Soccer Association is going full-speed ahead.

The Granite City Amateur Soccer Association was formed recently when the two separate boys and girls groups — the Tri-City YMCA Soccer Association and the Madison County Girls Soccer Association merged.

The new Granite City Amateur Soccer Association has over 100 teams composed of over 1,600 boys and girls ranging in age from 4 to 13 years. New leagues are currently being formed for under 16 and under 19 boys and girls.

The plans for the new fields (there will be nine fields involved in the complex) were shown to a meeting of Granite City Amateur Soccer Association coaches and managers last week at the Granite City Township Hall. The Association is currently soliciting written responses to the proposed complex in the form of petitions.

As soon as enough support for the proposed project has been shown, the Association plans to unveil plans for the initial construction to begin in the fall of 1981 with usage of the playing fields scheduled to begin in the spring season of 1983.

Also included in the plans for the soccer complex is parking for 400 to 600 automobiles and a new separate access road off of Pontoon Road. Traffic in and out of Village Lane Apartments would not be hindered according to developers.

The land which will be used for the proposed complex is owned by a group of area doctors and businessmen who have pledged to donate the 30-acre site to the Granite City Amateur Soccer Association if proper support from local industries, labor unions, fraternal organizations, businesses, financial institutions, political organizations and individuals can be obtained.

According to GCASA President Jerry Stone, the complex will be a boon to the area. "Once it's operational, we're planning several tournaments and special events there each year," he said. "These events will attract many out-of-town people who'll contribute thousands of dollars each year to our local economy." Those interested in obtaining further information about the project or making a donation may do so by writing:

Granite City Amateur Soccer Association, P.O. Box 1073 Nameoki Station, Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Harness racing at Fair

SPRINGFIELD — The 1981 Illinois State Fair will be offering more days of harness racing and horse shows than in past years. Illinois harness racing horses will be competing in front of the grandstand on Aug. 10 thru 13 followed by Grand Circuit harness racing on Aug. 21 thru 23.

The Western Horse Show will be July 23, 24, 25, 30, 31 and Aug. 1. The show is earlier this year with guaranteed premiums offered by the Illinois State Fair of $26,395 and Land of Lincoln guaranteed premiums of $21,640.

The Society Horse Show on Aug. 7 thru 14 will be followed by Pony and draft horse hitches on Aug. 15.

Workshop on program plans

A workshop designed to help program planners organize courses in consumer education for older adults will be held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Tuesday, July 21.

Sponsored by the Gerontology Program and the Center for Economic Education, the workshop, "Planning and Implementing Consumer Education Workshops for Older Adults," will meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the University Center's Maple Room. Cost of the workshop is $10.

Ray Bernardi, director of the Center for Economic Education, will lead the session, which will explore different types of community resources that would be beneficial in designing and implementing workshops. For more information, interested persons may contact the Gerontology Program at 1-892-3454.

Cougars to Sports Fest

EDWARDSVILLE — Although the official start of the 1981 collegiate soccer season doesn't get underway until the first round of practices August 13, several of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville's best, including assistant coach Rick Benben, will get an early start.

Benben, along with Cougar standouts Ed Gettemeier, Tom Braark, Mike Twellman, Steve Gauvain, Dan O'Keefe and newcomer Chris Hundel, will head to Syracuse, New York, July 13, to compete in the United States Olympic Committee's National Sports Festival. The National Sports Festival, scheduled to begin competition July 23, is the third of its kind and is recognized as the first step towards the 1984 Olympic Games.

SIUE in 1972 and a key ingredient in the Cougars first National Collegiate Athletic Association championship, will serve as the coach of the Midwest Squad. Other USOC Festival coaches are Jay Miller (South team), Colin Lindores (West squad) and Nick Zlatar (Eastern region). Benben has been a member of the SIUE coaching staff since 1973, taking time out in 1976 to play for the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League.

The Cougars, all natives of St. Louis, will open the round-robin competition as members of the Midwest Team, July 24. Following the Festival, USOC members, including soccer chairman Walt Chyzowych, will select an all-star team that will represent the United States in international competition.

To visit SIUE campus

Five candidates for the position of director of Lovejoy Library at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be brought to campus during July visits with library personnel and other members of the University community, according to John R. Danley, assistant professor of philosophical studies and chairman of the search committee.

The candidates and the dates of their scheduled visits are: Herbert Biblo, librarian at Illinois Institute of Technology, July 16-17; Gary Denue, director of libraries at the University of Detroit, July 20-21; Douglas Bush, assistant director of libraries for Information Services, Brigham Young University, July 23-24; Walter Wicker, director of libraries at the University of Detroit, Clear Lake, July 27-28; and Lawrence Besant, assistant director for Public Services at Ohio State University, July 30-31.

Danley said the candidates will be available to meet members of the University community in open sessions from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on the second day of their visits to the campus. The sessions will be held in Peck Building, Room 2406.

The committee is charged with the responsibility of recommending candidates for a person to succeed John C. Abbott, who announced in December his plans to resign as director and to seek reassignment on the library staff. Abbott has been director of the library since 1960.

The appointment will be made by the vice president and provost, subject to ratification by the president, chancellor and Board of Trustees. The director is the chief administrator of the library, including Audio Visual Services, and has coordinating responsibility for other library and quasi-library resources and services within the University.

Cards sign two more free agents

ST. LOUIS — The St. Louis Football Cardinals have added two players to their training camp roster today, it was announced by Larry Wilson, Director of Personnel.

Signed to free agent contracts were running backs Curtis Sirmone and Larry Powell.

Sirmone (pronounced Se-moans'), 6-0, 195, was drafted out of North Alabama on the eighth round by San Diego in 1980. He played in three pre-season games as a kick returner before being released Aug. 19. He played in only five games during his final two seasons in college because of a knee injury.

Powell is a 5-10, 180-pound back who was signed as a free agent by the Cleveland Browns last summer out of Illinois. He was released by the Browns prior to the regular season. Used as both a running back and receiver at Illinois, he worked out as a kick returner with Cleveland.

Packing burns energy
The meat packing industry uses more than 99 trillion Btu a year, making it the highest energy-consuming industry in the food and kindred products industry.

The Roosevelt dime was introduced Jan. 30, 1946. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was born on that date in 1882.

Ethnic festival still has room

There still is time for area church, civic, veteran or fraternal organizations to sign up for a booth at the Sixth Annual Madison Ethnic Days.

The event will be held Aug. 21, 22, and 23 (Friday, Saturday and Sunday) on the Madison Memorial Center grounds, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison.

Information may be obtained by telephoning Mike Mack at 877-4854.

The event will have a carnival with rides and game concessions, music, dancing and food.

Local organizations already signed to participate are Italian-American Club, Eastern Orthodox Church, Madison County Tavern Association, Explorer Post 911, Madison Amvets Post 204, Knights of Columbus, Madison Lions Club, Madison Fire department, and the Potymouth CB Club.

Patterson, Burton, Ford a -stars

DAN PATTERSON

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record
HIGHLAND — Three Tri-City Triplets were named to the first team of District 22 All-Stars here Sunday night and a fourth was named an alternate. Named to the team were infielder Danny Patterson, pitcher Keith Burton and outfielder Bob Ford. Randy Cann was named as an alternate.

The District 22 all-stars will play a team of Missouri all-stars Friday night at 8:30 at Heine Meine Field in South St. Louis. The District 22 All-Star game will be played Tuesday, Aug. 4 at Marissa, also at 8:30 p.m.

coaches here.

In other action at the meeting, a four-man appeals committee voted to allow a protest by Cahokia in regard to a forfeit it was forced to make on a game that was scheduled for 6 p.m. on July 2 in Granite City. Tri-City manager Eldon Warfield, his team and the umpires waited well past the allowed time before the umpires ruled that Cahokia would have to forfeit the game because it had not shown up in time for the game.

were originally scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Granite City South Field. But after all schedules had been made up, the local league decided to move the starting time of all home games to 6 p.m. A letter was sent out to all managers of teams scheduled to play in Granite City of the change. Cahokia said it never received its letter and therefore filed the protest. All other managers said they received their letters and have so far shown up for their scheduled games on time. According to District 22 Baseball Chairman Wayne Wirz of Highland, no proof could be offered either way on the protest. "They (Cahokia) couldn't prove they didn't get it, but Eldon (Warfield) couldn't prove he sent it. I guess the committee just decided that the main objective of our Legion program is to PLAY baseball, so they've rescheduled that game."

The game will be played this Thursday, at 8 p.m. at Cahokia instead of Granite City. According to Wirz, the field at Granite City South couldn't be scheduled for the game this week.

The North Division All-Star team selected last night included:

PITCHERS — Gordon Green, Alton; Rich Urban, Alton; Reed Helman, Edwardsville and Keith Burton, Granite City.

CATCHERS — Mark Buford, Bethalto; Phil Comaus, Edwardsville.

INFELDERS — Darin Jones, Alton; Bob McManus, Edwardsville; Jerry Stanford, Bethalto; Todd

Miller, Collinsville; Rod Woods, Collinsville; Danny Patterson, Granite City; Jay Rindner, Highland.

OUTFIELDERS — Dan Morrissey, Alton; Rusty Meyers, Alton; John Wood, Edwardsville; Bob Ford, Granite City; Jay Gibbs, East Alton.

ALTERNATES — Terry Milner, Edwardsville; Randy Cann, Granite City; Tom Ladd, Highland; Gary Bergesch, Alton.

The manager of the North Division team will be Tom Osborn of Alton. The coaches will be Don Schaake of Edwardsville, Eldon Warfield of Granite City and Fred McClary of Collinsville.

The appointment of chairmen of 30 committees and 28 sections of the Illinois State Bar Association has been announced by ISBA President Michael A. Coccia of Chicago.

Upon making the appointments, Coccia commented: "I am putting great reliance upon the people I selected to chair the various committees and sections of the State Bar. These are the key people who will help accomplish the important work of the association."

The Illinois State Bar Association is a voluntary organization with a membership of 25,000 attorneys. The primary association goal is to improve the administration of justice, by serving its members and the public.

Sections of the State Bar exist for virtually every major legal practice area ranging from administrative law to worker's compensation. Each section publishes a newsletter to keep lawyers up to date on the latest changes in the law. The sections also contribute their expertise to the legislative work of the association.

Committees are given the responsibility for specific projects such as professional ethics, fair trial-free press and delivery of legal services. The committees and sections work under the direction of the President and the governing board of the association.

Most chairmen are selected from the membership, but Coccia named one non-lawyer to chair a committee for the coming year.

The appointments include Leon Scroggins of Granite City who was named to the Unauthorized Practice of Law Committee.

Bill to curb nursing home abuse passes

Reporting nursing home abuse would be required by law under legislation that passed both houses of the General Assembly and next goes to the governor's desk. Under the proposal, nursing home employees would be required to report abuse to the Illinois Department of Public Health and the state attorney. The department would have authority to take immediate action to protect the resident if the reported abuse were life or health threatening.

The department would be required to turn over suspected cases of criminal violations to a law enforcement agency and make its files available to the agency.

STRUCTURE NEAR HARTFORD PLANNED

Eight applications for construction permits have been received by the Division of Water Resources, the Illinois Department of Transportation announced Monday. All persons either favoring or opposing the proposed construction are invited to transmit written statements to the Division of Water Resources, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway, Room 300, Springfield, Ill. 62764.

The applications include one by the City of Edwardsville, for the placement of an outfall structure on the Mississippi River, two miles south and one mile west of Hartford.

Corral, McDonald's split two

By TERRY MACKIN

of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — It was just plain hard to concentrate on baseball Sunday afternoon. The heat made life miserable for everyone at Wilson Park.

But the Corral Liquor Cowboys and McDonald's went on with their games anyway, splitting a doubleheader. Corral won the first game, 6-5, before McDonald's came back strong in the second game to win, 11-5.

And that was only fair for two teams that spent over six hours on the hottest day of the year playing baseball, while most people enjoyed the comforts of lounge chairs and air-conditioning.

But by the way the first game started, one would have thought that the game was being played in the Astro dome. Both teams hustled their way to three early runs.

Pitcher Doug Rains got things rolling for Corral on a walk. He then went to second, on a sharp single by first baseman Tom Greco. Both runners then advanced on a wild pitch by McDonald's starter Terry Page. Catcher Dave Hagenbrock then walked to load the bases, before Jeff Tretor lofted a deep fly ball to right field to score Rains. John Kreckovich then walked to load the bases again, and Jeff Stamper singled home both Greco and Hagenbrock to give the Cowboys an early, 3-0 lead.

But McDonald's came right back to tie the score in their first time at the plate. Third baseman Danny Schaus led off with a single, and went to second on a single by Page. Both runners then advanced on a wild pitch by Rains. Shortstop Jeff Parker then singled to score Schaus, and went to second on another wild pitch.

Bob Ford then doubled deep to left field to score him, Page and Parker and knot the score at 3-3.

Both pitchers then settled down to complete scoreless second innings, but Corral scored a run in the third inning without a hit to take the lead. Greco was given first on a catcher's interference call on McDonald's Mike Linhart, and then stole second. He then went to third on a long fly out to right by Hagenbrock, and then scored on a ground out by Tretor.

Corral led, 4-3, when the Cowboys in their fourth inning. Ford singled to center, and went to third on a single by second baseman Bob Stegemeier. He then scored on a fielder's choice by Al Yount, and the score was tied for another inning.

In the fifth inning, Rains got things rolling for Corral once again with a solid single to center. Greco then collided with Cowboy shortstop Boobie Clark, sending chaos over the field.

Clark was forced to leave the game on the play. Dan Hirstein then entered the game for Corral, hoping to end the rally and save the victory for Corral. After Ford struck out, Stegemeier reached on another Cowbot error, and tied the score, 5-5.

But McDonald's returned the favor in the eighth inning. After Stamper reached on a fielder's choice, third baseman Mark DeGonia then fumbled a ground ball, allowing Stamper to score. Hirstein held on for the victory for Corral, 6-5.

While the first game was played with much enthusiasm, the second game was just the opposite. At least for the Cowboys.

Reached first on an error by Parker, with Rains racing to third. Tretor then muscled another long fly ball to right to score Rains and give the Cowboys the lead, 5-4.

McDonald's threatened to score in their sixth inning when Kenny Wilson led off with a walk. He then advanced to third when Greco muffed a ground ball by Linhart. But then Page then hit a shot right back to Rains, who then started a perfectly executed double to end the threat.

But then Corral gave them a run in the seventh to tie the score by committing two crucial errors John Pritchford was given first on an error by Stamper. He then went to second on the bad throw, and on the play

Ken Crawford started for Corral and struggled from the beginning. Led by a two-run double by Terry Page, McDonald's scored four runs in the second inning to take the early lead. Wilson and Pritchford also had key hits in the inning.

McDonald's then scored, thanks to two crucial Cowboy errors, six more runs in the fourth inning to end all chances of a Corral sweep. Linhart, Ford, Stegemeier, and Wilson all had key hits in the big inning a 10-5 lead. They then scored a solo run in the sixth inning to hold on to the victory.

Steve Welch pitched six strong innings for McDonald's, and received help from Page in order to gain the victory. Crawford took the loss for Corral.

And both teams came out of day winners. They had beat the heat before the heat beat them, a feat which definitely deserves a pat on the back.

If you're in the process of planning a vacation to either coast this summer, a most pleasant one-day side excursion is to be had at virtually any of the vineyards and wineries in either California or New York. Long tradition welcomes visitors with open arms. Your visit should include an interesting tour which will, undoubtedly, further your appreciation of all that is required to make excellent wine. Most wineries include a short vineyard tour along with a visit to the processing area followed, all of which is explained by the experts. Greenville, Triplets divide DH

By TERRY MACKIN
of the Press-Record
GREENVILLE
Practice games are played in order to give rusty arms a chance to loosen up and to iron out nagging wrinkles that follow a team throughout the season. And that is exactly what the Tri-City Triplets accomplished here Saturday in a doubleheader split with Greenville. The Triplets lost the first game 8-2, before coming back strong in the second behind the pitching of Eldon Warfield to defeat the hosts, 9-7.

The pitching of Eldon Warfield? Since the game was a practice game, the Tri-City manager did not want to waste any of his pitchers. And since the Greenville club consisted mainly of college-age players, Warfield decided to pitch himself instead of risking injury to any of his players.

"I haven't pitched in awhile, but I keep my arm in good shape just in case anybody ever calls I just couldn't see wasting anybody today with the important league games coming up," Warfield said. The Triplets play at Freeburg Monday, and at South Division leading Alton, Tuesday. They then play a non-league doubleheader at Centralia Wednesday. "We're going to need all of the pitching we can get." But even a strong relief job by Warfield could not save the Triplets from the fastballs of Greenville's Glenn Hobbie in the first game. Hobbie struck out ten Triplets and allowed only two runs in registering a 3-2 victory for Greenville. And from the beginning of the first game, it appeared that the Triplets could be in for a very long day.

Greenville scored three runs in the first inning off Triplet starter Jody Panton to take an early lead. Centerfielder Jerry Hood led off the game with a single, and then Tom Marli singled to put runners on first and third. Marli then stole second. After Hobbie grounded out, Alan Schneider then singled to score both Hood and Marli. First baseman Mark White tripled, scoring Schneider and giving the Triplets a 3-0 lead.

The Triplets scored a solo run in the second inning when Rick Daily, who enjoyed a 6 for seven day at the plate, singled home Warfield who had walked. The Triplets scored another run in the sixth inning, but that was the only threat, they scored on the burlly Hobbie the entire game.

But the second game was entirely different. After getting off to another shaky start behind the pitching of Paul Eads and a shaky defense, Greenville scored two runs in the first inning. Hood walked, and shortstop Kenny Trager sacrificed him to second. Brian Martie then singled him home on a shot to left field. He then stole second, and was handed third on a wild pitch by Eads, and later scored on an infield single by Kendall Snyder. Greenville led 2-0.

Then, after pitching five innings in the first game, Manager Warfield entered the game in hope of taming the hot Greenville bats. "Eads was not pitching that bad, but I didn't want him pitching Wednesday after a bad outing. Confidence is very important this time of the year," Warfield said.

And so, on a shaky second inning, when Greenville scored four runs on two Triplet errors, Warfield settled down and brought back memories of his Legion days in gaining the Triplet win. "Hey, don't forget I was the MVP at the state tournament and won two games there," Warfield said after the game, joking with his players.

The Boutique II by H.G. is changing with the times. The Tri-City area is full of discounters, discounters where you can wait on yourself and buy manufacturers rejects or closeouts, but it doesn't have a legitimate full service specialty store where you can buy current first quality women's fashions at from 10 to 50% off. We want to emphasize that we will Sell Off-Price. We are not a discounter.

We will carry the same quality merchandise we have always carried and we will continue using the brands that you our customers have requested. The only difference is that we are going to Mark This Merchandise Down From 10 to 50% From The Very Day That It Arrives.

This new policy will start on Monday, July 13th with all Spring and Summer Merchandise reduced from 30 to 65% and all New Fall Merchandise reduced from 10 to 50%. The reason for this change is simple. We would rather see our customer walking around in today's fashions purchased at our store for less, than yesterday's discards purchased somewhere else.

SLOW VESSEL SPEED AT SITE OF NEW DAM

All vessel operators are being requested to control their wakes while passing the construction activity for the Lock and Dam No. 26 replacement at mile 201 of the Mississippi River.

"Vessel wakes create extreme safety hazards during the pile sticking operations, and cooperation of boat operators is essential," according to James A. Petersen, chief, Operations Division, St. Louis Engineer District.

Those excelling in the evening games and winning prizes were Mrs. Wilson, Brenda Rains, a guest, and Reatta Radefeld. Refreshments were served by the hostesses to those mentioned and to Betty Brooks, Edith Wofford, Helen Warfield, Nellie Nicol, Kathleen Wofford, Joyce Waller, and guests, Rose Yates, Beverly Golden and Shirley Bono.

O'Neal resigns as lieutenant-governor; leaves office Aug. 1

Lt. Governor Dave O'Neal, Thursday announced he will resign from office Aug. 1.

During a news conference in his hometown of Belleville, O'Neal stated he was considering several offers from private business, and expects to accept one of them soon.

"It was in 1970 I began my tenure in public service, by being elected sheriff of St. Clair County. Then in 1976 I was elected Lieutenant Governor on the ticket with Jim Thompson. I was re-elected in 1978. I've enjoyed my 11 years in public service."

"I feel that I have met the challenges the office of Lieutenant Governor now offers. It is a confining job. I have offered to Governor Thompson my recommendations for changing and expanding the functions of the office."

"Rather than accepting a salary for a job that needs to be restructured in order to be viable, and because of family preference, I have decided to resign as Lieutenant Governor, effective August 1, 1981."

The Illinois Constitution includes no provision for replacing a lieutenant governor who leaves office before his term expires. The programs and projects handled by the lieutenant governor's office are expected to be taken over by other government departments.

The lieutenant governor's duties currently include chairmanships of the Illinois Council on Coal Development, the Illinois Abandoned Mined Lands Reclamation Council, the operation of two Senior Action Centers, and sponsorship of the Senior Legislative Forum.

O'Neal's term expires in January, 1983.

Fine treatment at hospital here

To the Editor: This is to let the people in Granite City know what a fine hospital we have in our city.

We recently had a stay in this fine hospital. Everyone at the hospital was really nice. From the emergency room, through admitting, ICU, then to Fifth floor, Doctors Wing.

We feel that the fifth floor is the best floor in the hospital. The care we received was extremely good. Everything we asked for within reason, we received.

Dr. Lawrence Harmon, Dr. Dionea, and all the nursing staff of 5 Doctors, especially nurses Betty Thomas, Judy Awall and Marie Adamick were certainly nice and receive our praise.

The people in Granite City should be thankful for St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Warning on checking account number fraud

"Do not give your checking account number or savings account number to anyone," is the advice Granite City police are giving local residents, particularly elderly widows, due to recent attempts by a couple to obtain checking account numbers by phone.

Two cases have been brought to the attention of police. In one, a woman has called elderly widows, said she was calling from the bank and contending there was some problem with the widows' checking accounts. In each case, she conferred with a man while talking to the widow, and then asked for the checking account number.

Forgers can use the name and checking account number to assist them in cashing a stolen or forged check, police warned.

Banks already know the checking account numbers of their customers and would have no reason to call the customer to ask for his or her checking account numbers, officers said.

Anyone receiving such a telephone call should hang up and immediately call the Granite City police at 877-6111 or the detective division at 876-9227, it was suggested.

GETTING A HEAD START. Sheila Crews and Natalie Buster of Granite City are two of the area college freshmen participating in the New Student Life Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this summer. Miss Crews plans to major in social work when she enters the University this fall, while Miss Buster has chosen physical education as her career field. Along with 60-70 other freshmen, the two girls recently spent two days on the University campus, getting acquainted with college life. Approximately 20 sessions have been scheduled for the summer.

Freshmen exploring SIUE campus

Although the new quarter won't officially get under way at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville until the latter part of September, the campus is already bustling with the excitement of new freshmen exploring its facilities.

Armed with luggage necessary for a two-day stay, bedding and food money, the students are arriving at intervals all summer long to participate in the New Student Life Program.

Shortly after arrival, the students are whisked away on an extensive tour of the campus, learning more about the place which will be second home to many of them for the next four years.

James Rofter, admissions counselor, admits that the visits are not all "fun and games." During informational workshops, the students learn about academic and student services, housing, student financial assistance, counseling and testing, employment possibilities, faculty expectations and other topics of paramount interest to the entering students.

But, best of all, there is the opportunity for advanced registration, so that when they return in the fall, they have most of their "housekeeping" duties behind them and can "jump right into the swim of things."

In addition, friendships generated during the two-day stay provide the entering students with a peer network already in place when they return in September.
